REVOLUTIONARIES SEIZE WU CHANG.

Proclamation Issued Against Harming Foreign Citizens.

Hankow Fears Disaffection of Troops Will Reach the City.

HANKOW, China, Oct. 11.—The revolutionaries have won a notable victory, gaining possession of the city of Wu Chang after a battle with the loyal troops that began yesterday and continued well into last night.

Today the foreign residents had not been molested. The revolutionary committee issued a proclamation exhorting its followers not to harm the citizens of other countries. The fact that the wishes of the committee have been respected thus far, while reassuring to other nations, is in itself a sinister sign for the government at Pekin, as it indicates that the rebellious movement is now more thoroughly organized. Earlier outbreaks have assumed the character of rioting in which the mobs were soon out of the control of leadership, thus making their defeat by the better directed government troops comparatively easy.

The fear of the officials now is that disaffection among the troops will spread to this city, and every effort is being made to ward off this danger. Wu Chang is the capital of Hu Peh province and is situated to the south, just across the Yang Tse Kiang river from this city.

Five gunboats are now in the river in readiness to protect Hankow, if possible, should the necessity arise. The foreign consuls have also telegraphed their governments asking that warships be sent to the scene. American and Japanese cruisers are expected here tonight, while several gunboats are hastening hither.

As another measure of precaution, the merchant vessels in the river are keeping steam up, and women and children will be permitted to go on board them tonight. Volunteers have surrounded the foreign quarter and will remain on duty day and night until the safety of all foreigners is secure.

It appears that the revolutionaries, defeated in Sze Chuen province, where they for some time besieged the capital, Cheng Tu, transferred their chief activities to Hu Peh province, with the intention of making it the base for renewed operations in Sze Chuen. According to the officials an uprising in Wu Chang was planned for last Monday night. The plot was discovered early that evening and 32 arrests were made. The officials desiring to terrorize the revolutionaries, four of the prisoners were beheaded in the streets before the viceroy's yamen yesterday.

Among the foreigners known to have been in Wu Chang yesterday are 28 American missionaries. Communication with the city is almost completely broken and no word as to the fate of the Americans had been received at an early hour today.

With the revolutionists in control of a great and important capital, it is hard to estimate how fast or far the movement will spread. The officials are making every effort to keep the disaffection out of Hankow.

The energetic action of the authorities did not have the desired effect. Immediately after the execution a portion of the government artillery forces within the city mutinied and the uprising was precipitated. The disaffection in the artillery spread to other forces and the revolutionaries took advantage of the situation. They started fires in many parts of the city and attacked such of the troops as refused to join them.

The forces that remained loyal were overcome. The Tartai appealed to the foreign consuls to instruct their warships to guard the harbor limits and head off any re-inforcements that might be approaching the city from the river to strengthen the rebels. The viceroy sent a message to Pekin urgently requesting the immediate despatch of warships from Tien Tsin. Finally, seeing that further resistance was useless, the viceroy fled the city and found refuge on a private yacht that was lying in the river. His headquarters and those of the provincial treasurer were burned. The military commander was assassinated.

Wu Chang is the capital of the central province of Hu Peh and a town of about 600,000 inhabitants. It is situated just across the Yang Tse river from Hankow and in a sense the two may be regarded as a single great metropolis of 1,600,000 souls. Hankow is the great trading centre for all central China, but Wu Chang takes precedence over it in political importance. As the capital of the province and the seat of government of the viceroy, it has a great population of officials, including all the high provincial mandarins and the mandarins responsible for the government of the city and the prefecture.

The province of Hu Peh, a name which may be translated "North Lake," is considerably larger than England and Wales put together, and has a population of 35,000,000.

Wu Chang and Hankow, as great trade centres and ports for ocean steamers, have both felt to a considerable extent the influence of western civilization and ideas. Both towns possess electric lighting systems, cotton mills, silk factories and schools. Wu Chang is the seat of an important normal school for women. Within the past five or six years both cities have thrown their idols into the street or into the river, clearing many of their temples of priests and all emblems of worship, to make room for public schools. The movement has not been a religious one, but has been purely materialistic. The leaders of it, stimulated by the example of Japan, of adopting western methods of teaching, have been seized with the idea that education is the one thing needed to make China great. The worship of Confucius remains for the present in the schools, but observers declare that it is purely the worship of a great memory. The more progressive element in the population is said to regard all religion, whether Buddhism, Christianity or any other, as unpractical superstition. The Christian missionaries, however, have been able to make considerable headway, particularly through their educational work and their hospitals.

The outbreak of revolution in Wu Chang appears to have come with the

JAMES B. M'NAMARA FIRST.

Younger Brother Placed on Trial in Dynamite Case.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 11.—James B. McNamara of Indianapolis was placed on trial for murder here today before Judge Bordwell in the superior court.

That James B. McNamara, the younger brother of John J. McNamara, secretary of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, would be tried first for the murder of 19 men in the explosion of the Los Angeles Times building a year ago, was announced before the opening of court today by District Attorney John D. Fredricks, who declared that should the defense exercise its privilege of having the brothers separated he had elected to begin by placing James B. McNamara in the prisoner's bar.

Judge Bordwell's first action was, as anticipated, the denying of the motion by counsel for the defense for a change of venue, declaring that he was not prejudiced in the case.

KANSAS CITY HIS DESTINATION.

Rodgers to Follow Southern Route to the Pacific Avoiding Mountains.

MARSHALL, Mo., Oct. 11.—Aviator Rodgers left the ground before a favorable wind at 8:24 a. m. today. It was his plan to circle several times over Higginsville, Mo., but he intended to make no stop before reaching Kansas City, 85 miles distant. Fair skies and excellent flying weather confronted him. It was his plan to spend tonight in Kansas City, 1,483 miles from his starting point, and tomorrow fly to Parsons, Kas., 137 miles west of Kansas City. He will follow the southern route to the Pacific, thus avoiding the mountains.

Exceeding the world's record for a cross-country aeroplane flight by 183 miles, and speeding at times at the rate of 70 miles an hour, Rodgers landed here at 4:31 o'clock yesterday afternoon on his air voyage from New York for San Francisco. The former world's record, 1,285 miles was made by Harry N. Atwood, in a recent flight from St. Louis to New York. Rodgers has flown 1,398 miles, according to railroad mileage.

From a start made at Springfield, Ill., at 8:35 o'clock yesterday morning Rodgers flew 214 miles. He made two stops, at Nebo and Thompson, Mo., for gasoline.

ALMOST HALF WAY.

Aviator Rodgers Covers 1,483 Miles Since Leaving New York.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 11.—C. P. Rodgers, the aviator, landed in Swope Park at 11:34 a. m. after flying 84 miles from Marshall, Mo., today. Reaching here he had covered 1,483 miles since leaving New York and was within a few hours flight of the half way point in his cross-continent journey.

FOUR MORE TAUNTON MEN HELD.

Other New Haven Road Employes Arrested for Padding Pay Rolls.

TAUNTON, Mass., Oct. 11.—Four Taunton men, employed either as engineers or firemen on the Taunton division of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, were arrested and appeared in the district court in this city today, charged with padding their pay rolls. This action follows the arrest in Boston yesterday of seven other employes of the New Haven road charged with the same offense.

The men in court were Walter Sears, Charles E. Powers, William B. Howe, Jr., and Dwight Deckwith. They were specifically charged with receiving additional time slips from Edward Atcherly of Winthrop, timekeper, and with dividing the additional money they received with the time keeper. Howe entered a plea of guilty, but the other three men pleaded not guilty. All were held in $700 bonds for the grand jury. It is charged that the accused entered into a conspiracy with the time keeper June 1, 1910. Atcherly did not appear in court today.

Today's hearing follows the action taken last week, Thursday, when Timekeeper Atcherly was brought into the district court here on a charge of making false entries. At that time he pleaded guilty, but the railroad officials asked that sentence be deferred. They stated that this request, which was granted by the court, was made because the defendant had expressed a willingness to assist the railroad in bringing other men said to be equally guilty to justice.

TWO PRIVATE LIBRARIES.

Valuable Acquisitions Announced by Brown University.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 11.—The donation to Brown University of two valuable private libraries was announced today when the corporation of the university concluded its annual meeting, adjourned from the early part of September. The Spanish library of Colonel George Earle Church, a native of New Bedford, Mass., and formerly war correspondent for the New York Herald, is expected to come to the university and a valuable collection of engineering works has been presented by Elmer L. Corthell, '67, engineer of the Cape Cod canal.

VIRTUALLY AGREE UPON ARMISTICE.

Brought About by Germany and Other Powers.

Italy Still Sending Troops, But No Hostilities Will Occur.

BERLIN, Oct. 11.—It was declared from an authoritative source today that an armistice had been virtually agreed upon by Turkey and Italy, but that it had not yet been decided "officially". It was brought about chiefly through the efforts of Germany, aided by other powers. Italy continues sending troops to Tripoli pending the negotiations, but in the meantime it is understood that hostilities will not occur.

GATHERING HIS FORCES.

Defeated Turkish Commander to Resist as Long as Possible.

PARIS, Oct. 11.—Communication with Tripoli having been re-established, despatches are pouring in. From today's advices it would appear that Munhir Pasha, the commander of the Turkish garrison, together with his staff, trusted until the last moment that they would receive re-inforcements. When they were finally compelled to retreat before the Italian guns, they went so hurriedly that of necessity many supplies were left behind.

The first attempt by the Turks to re-take Tripoli took place yesterday, when a force of 3,000 Turkish troops with field guns and backed by a formidable mob of Arabs, advanced toward the town. They were repulsed after an hour's cannonading by the shore batteries, re-inforced by a well-directed fire from the warships in the harbor.

For several days bands of horsemen have been reconnoitering the vicinity of the Italian outposts. Several times at night bands have been discovered by searchlights of the vessels and then shells drove them back to the hills.

Even now Munhir says Constantinople must have some plan to come to his aid. Meanwhile he is gathering his forces in the Ghurian hills, to which he retired. In this position are all the available Turkish soldiers and armed Arabs from the Jebel region. He has at his disposal provisions for six weeks, without including what he expects to obtain by confiscating everything he is able to seize on the Ghadames caravan routes.

It seems to be the intention of the Turkish commander to resist the Italians as long as possible, but if he is not re-inforced to retire gradually, following the Ghurian range, which will provide him with sufficient water until he reaches the frontier of Tunis, where his forces will cross rather than fall into the hands of the Italians.

FLEET PASSES MALTA.

Italian Army Expedition Reported as Going Toward the Southeast.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—A despatch to Lloyds from Malta today says that an Italian army expedition of three battleships, a cruiser, eight torpedo boat destroyers, and 10 transports passed Malta this morning, going southeast.

THE ECUMENICAL CONFERENCE

"Evangelism" Most Important Subject Discussed at the Convention.

TORONTO, Oct. 11.—Continuing its consideration of the various phases of the practical work of the church, the Ecumenical Methodist Conference in this city today heard papers on "Church and Social Service." Those assigned for the morning service were on "The Special Teaching of the Old and New Testaments," by Rev. Gross Alexander of the Methodist Episcopal Church South; "Our Special Duty as a People's Church," by Rev. W. Hodson Smith of New Quay, England, and "Christian and Anti-Christian Socialism," by Rev. B. Hudson of the Primitive Methodist Church.

No subject taken up in open discussion has proved more interesting to the delegates than "Evangelism." Although it became evident that the old time personal appeal in public was no longer generally applicable to modern conditions, many workers believed that in many cases the mind must be reached by appeals to the emotions.

LATEST MID-SEASON STYLES —AND— FASHIONS —IN— COATS —AND— SUITS.

Up-to-date coats and suits each and every one of a distinctive style of its own, giving an individualness to the wearer, besides having the very newest of fabrics and materials in their make-up, coupled with that most important fact, that of the lowest prices that can be justifiably made, these and as many other good reasons have made our Cloak and Suit Department what it is today—the leader of this city. For only a short time ago we announced our formal opening and since that announcement the public has given us ample proof that they relied on this store and in our good judgment in buying coats and suits. So large, in fact, has been the demand in this department that it necessitated our buyer visiting New York a few days ago. There, the buyer bought a large selection of the very latest mid-season styles in coats and suits that in their make-up incorporate the newest "Parisian" fashions and ideas that are pictured in the leading fashion magazines for women. These newly arrived coats and suits are now awaiting your inspection and you will positively find them to be just what we claim, the very latest styles, fashions, materials, trimmings, etc., in coats and suits at the lowest possible prices coincident with their value.

POSSIBILITIES OF THE PEANUT.

Worthy of General Cultivation Throughout the Southern States.

Uses Are Becoming More Numerous and Include a Wide Range of Variety and Utility.

That the lowly peanut is worthy of more general cultivation throughout the Southern states, where in many instances it would be found more profitable than cotton, is the conclusion reached by W. R. Beattie, an expert horticulturist of the Department of Agriculture, and has been making an exhaustive study of the possibilities of the peanut as a profitable farm product, the results of which have been issued in a department bulletin. He has ascertained that the article which forms the principal part of the informal collations in the base ball parks and is the chief stock in trade of many of the modest merchants of the street is remarkably free from disease and has few insect enemies, and ease and has few insect enemies, and for these reasons he predicts that the boll weevil is in grave danger of experiencing a famine as soon as the merits of the peanut crop become generally known.

It will probably never become a staple product of Rhode Island farms, for the soil and climatic conditions in which it thrives best are found in an irregular shaped belt, extending along the southern boundary of the United States from the Atlantic to the Pacific coasts. The soil best suited is of a sandy, loamy nature, light or grayish in color. Even in the peanut belt, where the climatic conditions are favorable, the peanut is not grown to advantage on soils that are dark, or upon those carrying a considerable percentage of iron or other mineral.

The cultivation of the peanut for commercial purposes has until recently been confined chiefly to the areas of Virginia, Tennessee, North and South Carolina and Georgia. But during recent years the industry has been firmly established in the south Atlantic states and has been taken up in other sections of the country lying along the southern border. The belt now includes nearly all the southern half of the United States, extending from Virginia and Florida to California, so that there is no immediate danger of the supply failing to meet the demand. It is an area within which the frost-free season is comparatively long, the rainfall during the growing season is light, and where there is a high temperature, with an abundance of sunshine. There are probably many sections outside of the area included in the belt where the peanut might be grown profitably, but it is susceptible to frosts, and under favorable conditions it requires from 90 to 120 days to mature.

To most persons the peanut suggests only the article as it appears for sale whole or shelled and salted, but during recent years the uses of peanuts have become numerous, and include a wide range of utility. The demand for peanuts for use in the manufacture of food preparations is constantly increasing. By-products of the peanut are now being employed extensively in the manufacture of feeds for farm stock and dairy cows, and the plant is being largely utilized as forage and as a soil renovator.

Among the more important uses of the peanut for human food are the following, writes Mr. Beattie: It is eaten from the shell, as salted shelled peas, as blanched peas, in the so-called peanut candies and brittle, in combination with pop corn and puffed rice, in the form of peanut butter, and as an ingredient of peanut and vegetable meats, peanut meal and salad oils.

The use of the peanut for eating from the shell when roasted is most important and popular, but the quantity of shelled peas that are first roasted and then salted and sold by the pound is constantly increasing. Comparatively small quantities of the better grades of peanuts are first shelled and then roasted and the thin brown covering removed, after which the halves of the peas are broken apart and the small germ removed, giving the meats a blanched appearance which renders them very desirable for table use.

Great quantities of shelled peas are used every year in the manufacture of peanut candies and brittle, both alone and in combination with other nuts, pop corn, or puffed rice. A very desirable kind of peanut candy can be made by simply boiling shelled peanuts with a thick syrup consisting of two pounds of granulated sugar and one large cupful of water, together with a teaspoonful of lemon juice. When the syrup begins to boil add two pounds of unroasted shelled peas and cook slowly until the peas are tender and the syrup sufficiently hard to break when quite cold. The cooking process should as a rule continue for about an hour, when the mixture should be poured on a cold buttered platter to cool. Peanut candies as a rule are not adapted to handling in warm weather and should be kept cold after making.

During recent years great quantities of shelled peanuts, especially of the Spanish variety, have been employed for the manufacture of peanut butter. This butter is prepared by the ton in factories, is put up in bottles or tins containing from one-fourth pound to five pounds each, and has become very popular as a part of the luncheon menu and for camping and cruising supplies.

In the process of manufacture of peanut butter the peas are first given a medium roast, care being taken that the meats do not become overdone or scorched. The peas are then fanned and screened to remove the thin brown coverings and the germs, after which they are ground to a pulp by means of a special grinder similar to those used for chopping meats. As the peanut pulp comes from the grinder it is fed through a tin tube into the bottles or tins and tightly sealed. Some manufacturers follow the practice of salting the peanut butter, while others leave this part of the process for the consumer, who can easily salt to suit the taste.

By a little experiment and the aid of a small meat grinder, anyone can make good peanut butter for home use. The peanuts may be roasted before or after shelling, but in either case the oven should be only moderately hot, and the peas should be stirred frequently. After roasting, rub off the skins and screen out the small germs, or hearts. In grinding use the finest plate on the grinder and screw up the tension until the crank will be quite hard to turn. If the pulp is too coarse after one grinding, it may be run through again. It will not be necessary to add anything but a little salt to the butter, but if desired, the butter may be thinned with a little olive or peanut oil.

Peanut meal, made from finely ground blanched peanut meats, is used to some extent in confections. The meal is especially desirable in the manufacture of almond macaroons and small cakes, to which it imparts the desired almond flavor.

CENTRAL GRADED SCHOOL.

Preferred to Larger Building on the East Side or Additional Rooms.

General Consensus of Opinion After Discussion at the Middletown Hearing.

A special meeting of the Middletown school committee having been called for Tuesday evening at the town hall, the board held a brief session in the council room and voted to waive the usual routine of business, that the evening might be devoted to a public hearing on the general question of enlarging the present school facilities. An invitation had been extended to citizens of the town and about 30 responded. There was a general discussion of the matter and the consensus of opinion was that a central graded school is to be preferred to an enlarged school on the east side or additional rooms on any of the present buildings. While the town school lot near the Wyatt School was mentioned, no other definite location was offered or discussed.

The meeting was conducted by Mr. Alan R. Wheeler of St. George's School, chairman of the school committee, who stated that the object of the public hearing was to ascertain what proposition the townspeople were prepared to accept in regard to voting the necessary appropriation for increasing the school facilities. The time has apparently arrived when a graded school of perhaps three or four rooms is needed for children over 10, in order that they may receive the same advantages as in the schools in Newport, and also that the lower grades, which are congested, may be better and more easily handled. The school census shows an increase of 20 per cent in the past three years and the conditions point to an even larger gain in the immediate future. This pressure will not be relieved by increasing the district schools or by leasing private houses, which provides but a temporary relief. Mr. Wheeler then left the meeting open for a general discussion.

A summary of school conditions 40 and 50 years back showed that, while teachers often handled large schools, fewer lessons were given and little of the present routine of detail was required. Not so much was then required as now. The children secured what education they could under the circumstances, and if it did not happen to be a large amount nothing was thought about it. At the general age of 16, often younger, they were through school and at work.

Many outlying towns which do not represent the prosperous condition which exists in Middletown are still doing better work along school lines. If, as has been often stated, a graded teacher can do twice the good work of one who has ungraded work, what is gained by increasing the number of ungraded schools? The fear of increased tax has been the real root of the matter, a settlement of which has been put off and set aside for years, although foreseen by the school committee for a long period. If a building is to be erected, the future should be even more fully considered than the present, pressing though it may be, for there is no prospect that the conditions will abate; they are steadily on the increase. While the large numbers of Portuguese children are considered responsible for the over-crowded conditions, it is considered economy to educate them and it is easily seen that better citizens are the result of education, let the nationality be what it may.

In putting up a good building, all overflow schools would be dispensed with and the Paradise school, the smallest district, might perhaps be dispensed with. While the cost of maintaining a large school might be large, the expense of the overflow schools is heavy, according to the size and conditions, and the cost added to the present school houses and of new teachers would be correspondingly great. There would be a saving of heat, of teachers, janitors' service, fuel, etc., in having one building.

The seating capacity for the number over 10 (some 70) and the entrance age (now six) were largely discussed. Some of the taxpayers objected to the fact that they were not permitted to send their children at five years if they so desired. The age-limit was raised this year by the school committee in order better to accommodate the large number who were ready to attend, but with a large number of five-year-old children now remaining at home the question was not solved. Last year a special effort was made to have all children in school at the age of five and every known violation was looked into. This year there is evidently no work for the truant officer, as no attempt has been made to induce children of any age to attend school, since there is not even room in some buildings for those interested enough to come. This hardly seems to be encouraging education as required by the state laws.

The opinion of two teachers, who were in a position to know, was to the effect that Middletown is expecting an almost impossibility of its teachers in requiring them to do good work and still cover all grades, especially with so many Portuguese who know hardly a word of English.

The objection to the distance to a central school was considered and many were of the opinion that if parents were sufficiently interested in the welfare and advancement of their children they would as easily meet the situation as they now do in sending their children to Newport to be educated. In thus doing they pay a double tax, one in Middletown and the tuition fee in Newport.

Many locations were considered and a map of the town was exhibited. There was much discussion as to whether the centre of the town or the centre of population should be considered. The greater congestion seems to be on the south-east side, although at the Witherbee school the seating capacity is 35 and the present number attending is 30. When school closed in June 44 were in attendance. It was noticeable Tuesday evening that this section had the least representation, but two being present, and these made no remarks.

It was suggested that the matter should not be a question of money but of how much value is placed upon the proper education of the town's children, and that the town should have some pride in giving its children the advantages for which the present day is calling. Many towns have regretted that they had not more fully considered the future when they were erecting new school buildings, and made them larger and more desirable in every way. The eventual cost of continual additions to present buildings or of the erection of small extra school houses or overflow schools would be as proportionately heavy as the one building, without the advantages of the larger schoolhouse. The increase in the tax necessary to provide a central graded schoolhouse was estimated as about 10 cents on a dollar, possibly 5 cents.

A representative of the Portuguese said he thought education makes better citizens, and so far as their condition permitted he thought they desired to send their children to school. Those of this nationality are small taxpayers and few are voters, and he thought it to be regretted that the burden of building a new schoolhouse should result from their large numbers, although they would appreciate the advantages which such a building would give.

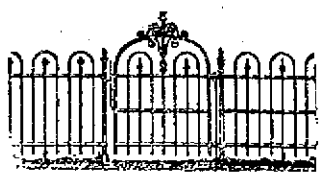

Among those active in discussing the issue were Rev. John B. Diman, Charles H. Ward, the members of the school committee, Frank Peckham, J. A. Peckham, R. Wallace Peckham, Fred P. Webber, Alden P. Barker, W. Chase, Rev. E. E. Wells, Philip Caswell, Elisha A. Peckham and A. S. Vargas.

MARRIED IN HASTE

Repent at leisure so the wise ones say; therefore, if you are contemplating the plunge, be sure to allow yourself time enough to examine the contents of The Kuzmujian Company's store. Everything is in good taste and of the best quality, rugs, furniture, china, pictures and draperies. This week they are selling a few white enamel bureaus at a reduction.

THE COMFORT OF A HOT WATER BOTTLE

Cannot be measured by the price. A good hot water bottle gives comfort that cannot be measured by the price—Comfort when you have to use one.—Comfort in peace of mind when you do not have to use it from the fact that you know a ready aid is at hand. Any price 38c. to $1.75. David J. Byrne, 128 Broadway.

SOMETHING NEW—TRY THEM.

Garretson and Co. have added three new special candies to their list of week end specials. Matinee Chocolates, Cream Peppermints, Chocolate Kreolas and Bitter Sweet Chocolates assorted. Together with their excellent Linwood mixed chocolates and cream caramels they are offered at the popular price 25c per lb.

IT'S THE LITTLE DETAILS

Of our tailoring as well as the fit that make our product noteworthy. We watch every little inner detail of the suit, give it just as much attention as the outside appearance. The framework must be built right to hold the fabric. Our tailoring is right inside and out, and you couldn't get better if you paid double the price. Fred Lundholm's, The Fashionable Tailor, 3 Broadway.

WE BOW TO KING COAL.

The merry old soul is pretty indispensible to our comfort and well-being. We have all sizes of the old fellow in our yards—small coal, and large coal, and all the coal that will reflect credit on the seller and give heat to the buyer and burner. Good clean coal at moderate prices. The Pinniger & Manchester Co. Phone 144.

LEAVE YOUR ORDER

For what ever you require. No need to wait and see that we give you the right cut and the right weight. You can be absolutely certain of getting both. We fill your order exactly as you give it either in person by phone or by messenger. If you try this market once we know you will be more than satisfied with the experiment. The Charles Tisdall Co. Phones 378 and 379.

CORRECT STYLES IN FALL

Footwear—Where wearing qualities, fit, comfort and style are the prime requisites. Our fall shoes for the fastidious woman will be found an exceptional selection. And when it comes to the men folks why we have provided for them also and the selection of men's shoes for fall and winter wear at The T. Mumford Seabury Co. is an easy one.

HAVE YOUR SHOES REPAIRED.

A good pair of shoes discarded because they need repairing. You make the mistake in doing else—but why not have them repaired by the man who can make them as good as new for he has an up-to-date shoe repair plant. You will find that the stock used in repairing your shoes will be the kind that wears if brought to The Boston Shoe Repairing Co. 110 Broadway.

EVERYTHING THAT BREATHES

Feels the difference in temperature. The thermometer is starting for new records in the cooler direction now, and then your horse must feel the cold—surely does if you haven't a warm blanket to provide for its comfort. Henry Bleasl & Son have the blanket question solved—so that you can find most anything in blankets here that you need.

THERE ARE MANY THINGS

To keep us busy these days but we have plenty of help and the best of facilities for installing your steam or hot water system. Phillip F. Conroy, 181 Thames St.

THERE ARE A FEW THINGS

About the grocery business that the public should know about from time to time. Any merchant can buy a poor vinegar or a poor grade of molasses for his trade but the molasses and vinegar to be had at A. R. O'Hanley's Grocery Store is the finest that can be bought. This is not just talk but a fact. 642 Thames street. Phone 795.

BUSINESS MOVING UP STAIRS.

One thing that is noticed in Newport is the fact the good ground floor rents are at a premium. One of the most enterprising moves made into second floor quarters in many years was that of E. Boudreau & Son. Ladies and Gentlemen's Tailors. Their establishment today is spic and span, with plenty of light and a general coziness that invites comment. Sherman Bldg. 149-2 Thames St.

THE LITTLE DETAILS

Of any business are the telling points that from time to time please its trade. F. B. Coggeshall studies this problem not because he likes to hear the people speak of things that are done "just a little different" at his market but because he knows people appreciate those things which when worked out spell "efficiency" every time. "Quality of Meats" is a by-word at this store.

TO REALLY ENJOY FISH

There must be an assurance in your mind that it is fresh fish which you have served on your table. Now there is no more of a charge made for fish at The Broadway Cash Fish Market than at other fish markets where you may trade. But there is one thing that should interest you and it is the fact that fresh fish are received twice each day at this market.

THERE IS ALWAYS PACKING

To be done when people are going from place to place—that is the packing of fine china, glass ware and furniture. This is a feature of the business of Wilmarth & Co., that many people have never heard of before. Yes, we have packed china, glass ware, etc., for many seasons for people who are particular, and we are glad to acquaint others with the fact that we do this kind of work. Phone 124.

IT SPEAKS WELL.

For an artist when one customer uses 500 gallons in a year and another uses 100 gallons of the same paint in the same time. It must suit and we think "Merrimac Paint" is the proper paint to suggest to you if you have any painting to do. That's the kind of paint the man who used 200 gallons in a year bought of us and our other customer of 100 gallons. S. W. Coggeshall, 201 Thames street.

THE SEASON IS ON

For sure now—The football season. The big teams throughout the country are playing their preliminary games and right here in our own town the boys are having a great time playing the game. A. G. Landers & Son have a stock of football supplies and necessities this season that makes all the boys of the game just pleased and very much satisfied — they come in and buy here.

NOT GENERALLY KNOWN.

Did you know that you can buy a genuine "Knox Hat" at Bill Goodman's for $3.00? He has them in soft and stiff felts and the latest styles and shapes at that. We have the $5 grade also. "Knox Hats" are style creators—others follow. Everything in clothing and furnishings for the carefully dressed man.

THE DRESSY MAN IS

Always particular about his laundry. We are particularly careful about handling the laundry of the particular and carefully dressed man. No black marks on the shirt front, no frayed edges on the collar. Our specialty is the dress shirt for the evening function. This is the laundry that takes pains to please. The Bellevue Laundry. Phone 393.

IS YOUR WATCH ALL RIGHT?

If it isn't it will be made to go right. Made to keep time accurately—that's what you want. A watch that you can depend on when you refer to it for the only information it can impart—the time of day. It doesn't cost much to have it speak correctly—if it doesn't do so now. Take your watch to Glazier's 96 Spring street for expert repairing.

PROOF PAINTINGS.

Did you know that the only concern that handles genuine "proof paintings" of noted pictures from the galleries of Europe is Wiseman's Art Store? Speaking of some of the subjects to be seen at this store your attention is called to "The Age of Innocence" and "Erasmus."

HOW MERRY THINGS

Are these days at Barney's Music Store. Ever since the pianos that were rented to summer people have been out on sale here people have been merry and glad—and right glad too, for they have picked up a genuine bargain in a fine piano. Wouldn't you feel merry too? Many of these pianos still here for the wise investor.

NOTHING PLEASES THE LADIES

So much as a fine box of chocolates put up in a dainty manner which is a characteristic of the brands we handle—Utopian Chocolates and Daggett's Chocolates. If you do not want chocolates we have everything else in the line of confections found in a first class store. The Broadway Spar, corner Farewell St. and Broadway.

MONEY GOES UP IN SMOKE.

Of course a great deal of money goes up in smoke, particularly cigar smoke. The smoke which arises from the cigars we sell is always right, however, because the cigars are the best that the market presents. We carry all the staple lines of domestic and imported cigars and can suit the most exacting smoker—no matter what he wants. W. T. Rutherford, 254 Thames St.

SIGHT IS THE MOST

Inestimable of all blessings, the most woeful of afflictions. A momentary realization of your helplessness without the use of your eyes will aid you to greater appreciation of their worth. An essential, then, of a happy existence give your eyes the attention their importance demands. Have the benefit of our methods of examining the eye. We get results. F. W. Putman, Optometrist, 118 Spring St.

CUT GLASS

Is always acceptable. It makes a long remembered gift. In the stock of cut glass displayed at Ruecker's, the Jeweler, 198 Thames St., you will find the newest designs exquisitely cut and the quality of both shape and design put the cut glass here displayed in a class of its own. Prices are reasonable.

WILL THIS BE THE WINTER

Of your discontent? Will you go thru the winter with regrets for your clothes, or will you go thru the winter on a "joy ride" with one of the snappy suits which Neil McLennan can make up for you at short notice? The selection of the material is the starting point of the whole situation. 114 Broadway.

DON'T SAY IT'S IMPOSSIBLE.

To make clothes look right on you. Perhaps it's not your fault. Let Anthony M. Marolda, 300 Thames St., give a thorough clothes examination free and willingly. He can measure you for a topcoat at the same time—it would feel comfortable these cool mornings—even the chestnuts feel the fall.

IT IS GOING TO HAPPEN.

Yes, it is going to be mighty cold soon and no mistake about it. And "it is going to happen" that somebody will be mad, real mad in fact, because he didn't have his heating system installed in time or the one he already has put in shape for the cold days ahead. Barker Bros & Co. are hustlers and are heating contractors. 138 Broadway. Telephone 215.

WHEN YOU MAKE ICE CREAM

At home and many folks do it, tastes pretty good—you make it in small quantities however. Did you ever stop to think of the man who makes ice cream day in and day out—he has to have things just right and this is particularly true of Tasso Bros., who have an excellent plant for the manufacture of ice cream.

A HOUSE COMFORT.

Better have a pair of shoes that will be comfortable for your feet when you are busy around the house. Better than slippers and they can be worn out doors. "Comfort shoes" is what to ask for and they can be purchased at M. F. Carrell's Shoe Store, 152 Broadway, at $2 and $3 per pair.

CAKE AND PASTRY.

Any one can make pastry and cake and sell it to the trade and there will be some purchasers. In catering to the trade however S. Koschany, Vienna Confectioner of 230-32 Thames St., has the reputation of using the purest of ingredients in the making of cake and pastry. That's why he holds his trade and gets new customers daily.

IN BUILDING A HOUSE

The owner usually leaves the matter of heating until all other contracts have been provided for and then, unfortunately, discovers that his building will probably cost considerably more than he estimated. As a consequence he feels obliged to cut down the cost of heating, not realizing that he is practicing a false economy at the expense of the personal comfort of himself and family. Better talk your heating problems over with Lincoln Hammett. Phone 318.

THE DIAMOND NECKLACE

At Herrmann's weighing 3¾ carats at a price of $1,100 referred to before in this column is not an ordinary sort of a necklace—but an extraordinary value for the money. Every stone that composes this wonderful piece of jewelry is an absolutely pure blue white diamond—what more could be said. It's a bargain at the price indeed and some lucky person will be its owner soon.

ARE YOU GOING TO BUILD?

That is building it in your mind and thinking what concern to procure the lumber from? For all kinds of spruce and framing lumber and high grade finishing lumber for the man who is building or going to build Robert W. Curry, 31-41 Chapel St., can quote you prices that will save you money. You can buy shingles, laths, etc., here, also. Phone 811.

THIS WILL BE A BIG

Season for game this say. Those that know have reported as above and the hunter who has in mind a new gun for this season can make a selection here that will be to his interest and satisfaction. On the road from the creamery to your table lurk a multitude of unpleasant odors and an army of germs. Is it any wonder that most butter reaches you with its purity lost, its fresh flavor gone?

There is only one package which gives perfect protection against these germs and odors. That is the package used for Uneeda Biscuit by the National Biscuit Company and for Gold Medal Creamery Butter by us.

No other creamery in New England can use this sanitary package. The cartons used for other brands merely cover—they do not protect.

Gold Medal Creamery Butter comes to you with all its original purity and delicious flavor. When you open the package, it is like taking the cover off the churn.

WAR ON TYPHOID URGED.

Marine Hospital Service Advises Vaccination as Preventative of Infectious Disease.

The prevalence of typhoid fever in practically every section of the United States has inspired the public health and marine hospital service to express publicly its belief in the artificial immunity, with certain limitations, afforded by anti-typhoid vaccination, already compulsory in the American army for soldiers under 46 years of age. In a report just issued the public health service reproduces the summary of the findings of a commission of the Academy of Medicine of Paris, which investigated the subject.

"Anti-typhoid vaccination," the French commission declares, "does not accomplish the complete disappearance of this infectious disease in the community where it is practiced, but it diminishes very notably its frequence. Moreover, such of the vaccinated who contract the typhoid fever, notwithstanding, have much milder attacks than non-vaccinated subjects. The percentage of deaths supervening among the former is one-half that of the non-vaccinated typhoid patients."

In the judgment of the commission the vaccination should be practiced only upon healthy subjects, free from all organic or other defects and from local or general affections, no matter what their nature, especially tuberculosis.

MIDDLETOWN.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

Neighbors' night at Nanaquaket Grange, Whitredge hall, Stone Bridge, was attended by large numbers—16 from Aquidneck, Middletown; 6 from Portsmouth, 84 from Nanaquaket, 20 from Tiverton and 32 from Little Compton. Aquidneck presented a 20-minute program of readings, singing, and a recital. A collation was served. The night was flawless—a harvest moon and no wind, and the trip and the entertainment all that could be desired. Nonquit Grange, Tiverton, holds its neighbors' night this evening and Little Compton early in November. Many are planning to attend the November meeting.

Those having occasion to be out Tuesday evening were impressed by the display of the aurora borealis, which must have been especially strong to have been so noticeable with the moon flooding the sky and landscape. Late in the evening the fields seemed to be covered with a heavy white frost, which proved to be a low, dense fog.

A strip of upper Bliss road, near the Boulevard, is being macadamized under the direction of Mr. Walter S. Barker. The W. C. Peckham Company steam roller has been operating in conjunction with the work the past week.

FACTORY PRODUCED FOOD.

[F. N. Barrett, in Good Housekeeping Magazine.]

The universal march toward convenience and cheapness in foods, brings a higher average of goodness. Steam, electricity, and machinery now work together to give consumers higher average quality of product at lower cost than would be possible under the almost discarded old methods, when by hand was produced variable quality of foods.

Nearly all states have enacted statutes which guard the integrity of the food supply. It embraces sanitary supervision of the raw product and its handling. The open factory door says to the consumer, "Come and see; study our way of handling food and become convinced that we buy cheaper, cook or prepare more cheaply; do it in a scientific way; follow strict sanitary rules, not only as to the food handled, but as to the cleanliness of the factory." The stairs, floors and windows must be cleansed daily by live steam; the utensils must be kept spotless; the workers must be tidy and neat, and have strict regard to personal cleanliness. This latter requirement has made the manicurist part of the working force in the best equipped factories.

Compare this commercial policy with that of the home kitchen presided over and left to the mercy of servants, all but very few of them utterly ignorant of the science and art of cookery and indifferent to sanitary rules. One sees at a glance that the factory is pre-eminently the safest handler and preparer of foods, ready to be served at table simply by warming, or, if desired, cold by opening the container.

CITRUS SANDWICHES.

1. A most delicious sandwich is this: Make a light biscuit dough; roll and cut it out in thin rounds so that the resulting biscuits will not be thick. When baked break them open; spread each side with a little softened butter and between them put a teaspoonful of Florida orange or grapefruit or tangerine marmalade. Good hot or cold.

2. Spread one piece of thin-sliced graham bread with cottage cheese; a second with one of the Florida citrus marmalades and put them together.

3. Shred the pulp of a Florida orange; mix it (drained but not squeezed) with one of the Florida citrus salad dressings and spread between thin slices of unbuttered bread.

Orange straws cut into shreds, and fine-shaved kumquats, may also be used in dainty sandwiches, and there are innumerable combinations possible with nuts and the dried fruits.

ORIGINAL SHERLOCK HOLMES.

The Man After Whom A. Conan Doyle Drew His Famous Character.

Had a Singular Genius for Noting Details and Forming a Chain of Circumstantial Evidence.

Dr. Joseph Bell, the instructor in surgery at the University of Edinburgh, who died in Edinburgh recently, was the man after whom Sir A. Conan Doyle, the novelist, drew the famous character, Sherlock Holmes. Dr. Bell was the son of a surgeon. He married Edith Katherine Murray, the daughter of Hon. James Erskine Murray, in 1865. His wife died nine years later, but he has two daughters. He was educated at the Edinburgh Academy and University, and then went through the ordinary course of a hospital surgeon at Edinburgh Royal Infirmary, from dresser to senior surgeon and consulting surgeon.

Dr. Bell was editor of the Edinburgh Medical Journal for 23 years. He published "Manual of Surgical Operations" and "Notes on Surgery for Nurses." He belonged to the University and the Edinburgh Clubs, and his favorite pastimes were fishing and shooting. He lived at 2 Melville Crescent, in Edinburgh, and had a country place at Maurice Wood, Milton Bridge, Midlothian, where he was a justice of the peace. He was also a Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons.

Dr. Bell was one of Sir A. Conan Doyle's instructors at the University of Edinburgh, where the novelist was educated, in the early eighties. He had a singular genius for noting details and of forming a chain of circumstantial evidence from them, which gave Conan Doyle his first suggestion of his now famous character. A theory which Dr. Bell constantly advanced was that any really good doctor ought to be able to tell before a patient fairly sat down just about what was the matter with him or her. With women especially he could frequently tell what part of their body they were going to complain about before they had uttered a sound. He constantly impressed on his students—Conan Doyle among them—the vast importance of seeming trifles.

"The great majority of people and incidents and of cases," he once told his class, "resemble each other in the main and larger features. Most men have apiece a head, two arms, a mouth, a nose and a certain number of teeth. But it is the droop of an eyelid or whatnot which differentiates men." Dr. Bell would illustrate to his class his mode of procedure by giving one or two instances to prove the successful application of his theory. These instances were strongly suggestive of the methods which Sherlock Holmes was later described as employing.

"Once," he said, "a man walked into the room where I was instructing students and his case seemed to be a very simple one. I was talking about what was wrong with him; 'Of course, gentlemen,' I happened to say, 'he has been a soldier in a Highland regiment and probably a bandsman.' I pointed out the swagger in his walk suggestive of the piper; while his shortness told me that if he had been a soldier he had probably been a bandsman. In fact he had the whole appearance of a man in one of the Highland regiments. The man turned out to be nothing but a shoemaker, and had never been in the army in his life. This was rather a floorer, but being absolutely certain I was right, and seeing something was up, I did a pretty cool thing.

"I told two of the strongest clerks, or dressers, to remove the man to a side room and detain him till I came. I next had him stripped and, under the left breast, I instantly detected a little blue 'D' branded on his skin. He was a deserter. That was the way they used to mark them in the Crimean days and later, although it is not permitted now. The reason of his evasion was at once clear."

"Conan Doyle," Dr. Bell continued, "was one of the best students I ever had. He was exceedingly interested always in everything connected with diagnosis, and was never tired of trying to discover all these little details one looks for. I recollect that he was once much amused when a patient walked in and sat down. 'Good morning, Pat,' I said, for it was impossible not to see that the patient was an Irishman. 'Good morning, Your Honor,' he answered. 'Did you take your walk over the links today as you came in from the south side of the town?' I asked. 'Yes,' said Pat. 'Did Your Honor see me?' Well, Conan Doyle could not see how I knew that, absurdly simple as it was. On a showery day, such as it had been the reddish clay at the bare parts of the links adheres to the boot and a tiny part is bound to remain. There is no such clay anywhere else around the town for miles. This and one of two similar instances excited Doyle's keenest interest and set him experimenting himself, with very brilliant results, as you know."

One day, in the presence of his class Dr. Bell said to a patient who had come to the Edinburgh Royal Infirmary for treatment: "Gentlemen, we have here a man who is either a cork cutter or a slater. If you will only use your eyes for a moment you will be able to define a slight hardening—a regular callous, gentlemen—on one side of his forefinger, and a thickening on the outside of his thumb, a sure sign that he follows the one occupation or the other."

Dr. Bell invariably deprecated the notoriety thrust upon him, and protested that the famous "inductive methods" were simply a faculty of observation that should enter into every sound doctor's curriculum, and directions for acquiring which are to be found in every good textbook of general medical practice. It was in his application of them in half playful mood to everyday matters which struck the imagination of the novelist during his student days and a character that, when all allowances have been made for the extravagance of his presentation that became a vice in the latter episodes, remains one of the greatest creations of fiction.

REWARDS FOR AUSTIN HEROINES.

Three young women telephone operators of Austin have been rewarded for service during and since the flood which wrecked the town. In the case of Kathleen Lyon, one of the heroines of the flood, who stuck to her post and flashed warnings of the onrushing water, the reward was substantial. The telephone company presented her with a gold watch, a check for $250, and raised her wages. The watch bears the following inscription: "To Kathleen Lyon from her employers, Bell Telephone Company, in recognition of her courage and devotion at Austin, Penn., September 30, 1911."

Lena Binkley received $100 and Hazel Knapp $50.

OF ONE WHO WALKS ALONE.

[Thomas S. Jones, Jr., in Scribner's.]

These are the ways of one who walks alone,
Sweet silent ways that leads toward twilight skies
Bees softly winging where a low wind sighs
Through the hills' hollow coot and clover blown.

These are the ways that call one back again
To old forgotten things in faded years,
Swift on a moment of remembered tears
They stand from out the dust where they have lain.

These are the ways life's simple secrets bless,
Keen homely scents borne by each haunted wind—
Here in the silence one may ever find
That last strange peace whose name is loneliness.

KEEP SMILING.

[J. T. Hallett, in National Magazine]

Cheer up, don't grumble, what good does it do
To worry and fret, frown, sulk, or look sad?
The world turns its back on the men who are blue
Favoring always the cheerful and glad.
If you are dead broke or have met with distress,
Pluck up, make another beginning,
Failures teach lessons that lead to success,
Keep cheerful, smiling and grinning.

The figures show a variation of 5,000 cubic feet between the estimate of the building inspector and the ex-building inspector as to the total cubic area, but the majority report shows a difference of approximately 64,000 cubic feet.

Under the conditions of the law it cost the owner of the building $30 for these reports, a third of which was paid to the maker of the minority report before they could be accepted as filed.

The incident has been educational, showing the workings of the building law, for it has brought out points which few people seem to appreciate were there.

Twice-Told Testimony.

Newport People Are Doing All They Can For Fellow Sufferers.

Newport testimony has been published to prove the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills to others in Newport who suffer from bad backs and kidney ills. Lest any sufferer doubt that the cures made by Doan's Kidney Pills are thorough and lasting, we produce confirmed proof—statements from Newport people saying that the cures they told of years ago were permanent. Here's a Newport Case:

John L. Cookinham, 20 Poplar St., Newport, R. I., says: "I gladly confirm the statement I gave for publication in 1908 recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. My kidneys troubled me for some time. The kidney secretions contained sediment, and were irregular in passage, causing me annoyance. My back also ached severely. I finally used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Wright & Hay's Drug Store, and they gave me entire relief."

THE PROGRESS OF THE WAR.

Looked at from this distance and in the light of such news as filters through two or three languages to us, the Turks are not putting up a very good fight. That they have no navy may be charged to his late Majesty, Abdul Hamid, who was greatly afraid of the navy and would never allow it to be kept in a state of efficiency or to leave the Bosphorus, though its existence afforded him an opportunity of appointing an incredible number of admirals—rear, vice and without qualification—besides captains and lower officers galore. The defenses of Tripoli have naturally been neglected by a government always on the verge of bankruptcy, as Tripoli is quite out of sight and therefore easily out of mind.

Still, one would expect a nation of belligerent traditions to do something. Some second-hand war vessels were purchased from Germany last year. Probably the purpose of buying them was to establish a claim on the good will of Germany; but the obsolete craft having been sold, Germany assures Turkey that she is sorry but can do nothing at this time. Why are not those vessels sent to fight the Italian ships and shell an Italian port? That would be tit for tat. Of course the vessels would be destroyed presently, but if they are not serviceable in war they might as well be destroyed; as for the unfortunate officers and crews, it is the fate of soldiers and naval sailors to die for their country. If Turkey wishes European intervention she is more likely to secure it by doing some desperate fighting than by diplomatic appeals.

Fethi Pasha, on the eve of going to Tripoli to take command of the troops there, announced a policy singularly like that of John Phoenix, a forgotten humorist, who proposed that forts should be built open toward the enemy. He had noticed that in attacks the advantage was always on the side of the assailants, so he would let the enemy in easily and then the defenders would attack the fort and take it. Fethi Pasha will soon have 10,000 regulars and two or three times that number of Arabs several miles south of the city of Tripoli, and then if the Italian battleships stray so far from salt water they will be smashed to pieces. Both the star and the crescent will fall upon them. After the Italians have all they wish along the sea coast they will not pursue the Turks or the Bedouins into the desert.

CO-OPERATIVE COLLEGE TRAINING.

A new movement is the Inter-Church College which has been established in the South. This institution is planned for religious and social workers and around it are to be grouped denominational training schools. The central college will be the nucleus of the entire plant and will afford general instruction, which will be supplemented by special teaching at the separate schools. By this method economy will be secured, as one main faculty will be sufficient for all the denominations, leaving only special teachers to be provided by each in its own training school. There will be further economy in the costs of administration, as the college building will be used in common by all interested and only comparatively slight expense will be involved in the maintenance of the separate schools. On the board of directors will be represented all the denominations which join in the movement, and so there will be no chance of discrimination.

This is a unique arrangement for co-operative college work and special training along religious and social lines which gives promise of being helpful in developing the spirit of unity among denominations. At the same time it will simplify the provision of opportunities for instruction and make it possible for some denominations to participate in this way in the training of youth for work of this kind which perhaps they could not afford entirely on their own initiative and without a reduction of expense such as will be secured by this plan. It is an experiment which will prove of interest to many, and particularly by reason of its location in the South. In the midst of a large population which needs work of the kind for which instruction will be given at the proposed institution.

Thus far religious and social work by laymen has been done much more largely in the big cities of the North than among the more scattered population of the South, but there is fully as much need for such efforts in the latter section as in the former. The work will be different in some of its aspects because of the difference in the conditions in these two parts of the country, but it will be found that there is much to be done among the Southern people as well as among the dwellers in the large cities of the North. There was a time when it was thought that any one who had enthusiasm could do religious and social work, but that idea has been proved incorrect and it is now recognized that special instruction and training are needed. Such preparation will be afforded at this new institution, under auspices particularly favorable and amid a population which needs such efforts in its behalf, among which experience can be gained while the instruction is being given in the general foundation studies.

The opportunity which will be afforded by the college and its allied training schools for practical church union among denominations is one of the most commendable features of the plan. There is already much unity of this sort among those who are working in the large cities along religious and social lines, but thus far there has been little or no opportunity for those in the process of training for that sort of service to labor together, and so become confirmed in union work for the religious and social welfare of the people before they actually begin the efforts for which they are preparing themselves. That this intercourse and mutual helpfulness among students will be of value in breaking down denominational lines so far as practical work is concerned cannot be doubted and much good in this direction is confidently expected to be done through the medium of this later-church college and the denominational training schools which are to be associated with it.

MANUEL AND MIGUEL.

Certainly it is a hard-hearted mother-in-law who will not "grub stake" her son-in-law in his prospecting for a throne because in the event of success her daughter would be a queen and that would be worth a great deal of money. There are plenty of American duchesses and countesses and all that sort of thing, but there is no American queen and such a distinction would be worth a good round price. Of course the money might not bring the crown, but there are no sure things which offer big returns; one must take some risk of loss if he would win heavily.

It is said that money talks, but the millions of "Silent" Smith, now in the possession of his widow, do not talk. They acquired habits of reticence from their former owner and are not saying a word about backing the Portuguese monarchists in their schemes for overturning the republic.

It is true that it is Miguel's mother-in-law and not Manuel's who has been importuned to finance the Royalist cause. Manuel was recently the king and the Royalist movement so far as it has a bodily form is in his interest, though he is leading the life of a private citizen in England and appears to be quite content; at any rate he shows no disposition to risk holes in his skin in an effort to recover his throne. Miguel, on the other hand, is just a pretender to the throne. He is what Don Carlos was to Spain a few years ago and perhaps is yet, and what Prince Charley was to England a century and a half ago.

Miguel is confident that the people of Portugal really desire him and, any way, if the friends of Manuel will attack the republic it should make it easier for Miguel, if a rich American mother-in-law would back him, to put himself forward as the rightful heir with the only genuine strawberry mark on his arm. Thus far, however, the mother-in-law finds the financing of a prince all she cares to undertake, and shows no disposition to back a king or a pretender who has both the republic and the late king to overcome.

Lieutenant Governor Frothingham, the Republican candidate for governor in Massachusetts, has been bothered in his campaign tour by a number of woman suffragists, who followed him about the state making the trip almost miserable for the campaigners. At last, goaded by the persistency of the women, the Republican managers hired two bands and ordered them to play while the women were speaking. This plan worked satisfactorily to all except the women, who when they found their voices drowned in the din left the speaking field to the Republicans. The women, however, were still able to follow to some extent their obstructionist tactics, distributing circulars and having an occasional chance to set forth the aims of the suffrage cause. These women are evidently following the example of their British sisters.

Dr. Wiley, the chemist expert of the national food and drugs department, given a free hand in his investigations, has begun a new crusade and will immediately proceed to find out "What is beer?" "What is vinegar?" and "What is a soft drink?" Regarding the last named he has long contended that the soda fountains are a real peril and should not be permitted to undermine the health of the youth of the country as they do at present. He has insisted that the menace is sinister and hidden, but nevertheless that much "dope" has been unconsciously allowed to be administered to innocent patrons of soft drink establishments. He proposes now to ascertain positively if his contention is well grounded.

In its appeal to employes for economy, the Rock Island railroad reminds each clerk that he should try and realize that for each sheet of carbon paper he uses the company must haul a ton of freight nearly a mile. Perhaps after a clerk fully realizes the fact which the company seeks to impress upon him, he will consider that each time he pays fare on an electric car he spends the interest on a dollar for a year.

After the long committee hearings on the charges of bribery against Senator Stephenson of Wisconsin, the man who brought the charges admits that he had no facts or information known to him to be true on which he based them, but that they were made entirely on "hearsay." This may not affect the investigation, but "hearsay" is slim evidence on which to make serious charges against any man.

The people of California have apparently gone the way of those of other western states regarding amendments to their state constitution. They have undoubtedly adopted the initiative and referendum, the recall and an appointive railroad commission, but have declined to grant woman suffrage.

Columbus day this year will be more generally observed as a holiday than ever before. The Italians of Newport have arranged an excellent and varied program for the celebration here, and only need good weather to make it a success, not only for themselves but for the public.

Cuba has launched her first war vessels. A cruiser and a training ship are not a great navy, as the world goes today, but they make a good beginning, and as they are American-built are undoubtedly the best of their kind to be had. Cuba is a growing nation.

GIBRALTAR NEVER SLEEPS.

[Cassell's Saturday Journal.]

It has always been known that Gibraltar, which belongs to Great Britain, is one of the strongest forts for both defense and offense in the world. It is said that an immense fleet could be sent to the bottom before getting within five miles of Gibraltar. Not even a torpedo boat could succeed in entering the bay unobserved on the blackest night. The most eminent naval experts are of the opinion that this world's greatest fortress is almost impregnable.

Gibraltar never sleeps. By day and night two perfectly equipped signal stations, proudly flaunting Britain's flag of ownership, sweep the seas around to a distance of 15 miles on a clear day, instantly reporting the coming and going of each vessel.

Modern "needle" guns, the finest in Europe, are installed on all the most prominent points. They are unreachable from the sea, even as they are hidden from view by the skilful way with which they are planted and draped to match the surrounding vegetation, while huge screens drop automatically before them as each shell is fired. They have a range of 15 miles and could drop shells on Ceuta in Africa, opposite, quite comfortably.

One gun weighs 110 tons and is capable of throwing a shell weighing three-quarters of a ton. In that marvel of engineering under great difficulties, the galleries, are concealed guns for every day in the year. These galleries are divided into three sections, entry to which is guarded, while one is closed even to high officers, containing preserved stores, munitions of war, rain water (for Gibraltar has no springs) and a complete condensing plant—all calculated to outlast a siege of seven years.

The firing is the most mathematically perfect imaginable. The surrounding waters are mapped out into squares, upon which certain guns are kept ready trained, so that it is almost impossible to miss.

BIBLE BAKED IN BREAD.

In a letter recently received in Yonkers, N. Y., is a leaf from the dairy of Mrs. Mary A. Moody who, almost 50 years ago, was a devout church woman in Cincinnati, Ohio. The extract reads:

"February 15, 1862: I wish to note here a short account of an old Bible, the finding of which in Lucas county, Ohio, has excited a great deal of curiosity, being more than 150 years old, and having been baked in a loaf of bread.

"The Bible belongs to a Mr. Scheboit, a member of the United Brethren Church, who lives near the Maumee river. He is a native of Bohemia. The baked Bible originally was the property of his grandfather, who was a faithful Protestant when such a profession cost something.

"All of the peasants in the community in which he lived were ordered to give up their Bibles, and officers of the crown were sent through the town to see that the Protestant Bibles were taken out of the possession of their owners.

"Mr. Scheboit's grandmother, knowing that the officers were coming, concealed the present volume in a batch of dough then ready for the oven, and baked it. The house was carefully searched, but no Bible was found, and when the officers departed the precious book was taken unharmed from the loaf.

"The relic is now considered quite valuable, and is kept with a religious veneration."

Republican Executive Committee Sits All Day on the Allen Controversy.

Providence Democrats Ratify Caucus Nominations—Young Republican Club Election.

The executive committee of the Republican state central committee sat all day Tuesday, considering the fate of Samuel W. K. Allen, Republican "boss" of East Greenwich, and at the close of the long session announced that there would be another meeting in a few days. Some of the anti-Allen men who testified said afterward that if "Sam" Allen was not overthrown by the committee, they would turn Democrats until the state organization realized the error of its ways. If the anti-Allen faction combines with the Democrats in East Greenwich, it is pointed out, that town would swing into the straight Democratic column. Both sides of the Allen controversy went before the committee shortly after 11 o'clock. Recess was taken from 1 to 2 o'clock for luncheon, and at 5 o'clock an adjournment was taken without any decision having been announced. At that time General Wilson said: "The committee has heard the testimony of both sides of the contest. The committee will take the matter under consideration and I will, within a few days, call another meeting of the committee. We will then make a decision and give a statement to the press."

The Democrats of Providence held their city convention Tuesday evening, ratifying the result of the recent primaries in nominating Alderman Joseph H. Gainer for mayor, James H. Nolan for city treasurer, John H. Maguire for harbor master and Matthew J. Cummings for overseer of the poor. It also nominated Addison P. Munroe for re-election as senator. There were no bickerings and no factional fights. All was as serene as a summer morning, and the business was transacted with dispatch and with the precision of well oiled machinery. The convention in effect was merely a ratification meeting of the will of the people, as exemplified at the direct primaries held last week, and all the delegates apparently assembled with the single purpose to nominate those candidates whom the people had selected.

At the annual meeting of the Young Republican Club of Rhode Island, held Tuesday afternoon in Providence, the same officers who served the past year were re-elected, and a committee of five was appointed to draft a new constitution. The report of the treasurer showed that the receipts for the year had been $1,777.58, and the expenditures $1,726.66, leaving a balance on hand of $91.02, with all bills paid. The following officers were unanimously elected: President, Percy W. Gardner of Providence; first vice president, W. Louis Frost of Providence; second vice president, George B. Utter of Westerly; secretary and treasurer, Howard D. Wilcox of Providence; executive committee, Edward A. Sherman and William R. Harvey of Newport, for Newport county; Clinton Lewis of Barrington, for Bristol county; George B. Utter of Westerly, for Washington county; Frank Wooley of Coventry and Waldo Place for Kent county; Glen L. Briggs of Woonsocket, Harold Andrews of Cranston, W. Louis Frost, Howard D. Wilcox and Percy W. Gardner of Providence, for Providence county. It was voted that the annual dinner and ratification meeting be held October 26, and that the executive committee be given power to fill vacancies on that committee, should any occur.

Motions to dismiss the applications for writs of certiorari against the boards of canvassers of Pawtucket and Central Falls were filed Tuesday in the supreme court by the respondents, and the hearing Thursday morning is expected to involve the points raised in the motions. The petitions were filed in the name of Attorney General William B. Greenough at the relation of Hugh J. Carroll in the Pawtucket case and at the relation of Thomas Riley, Jr., in the Central Falls case, the petitioners alleging that the action of the canvassers and tax assessors in assessing and placing on the voting lists certain personal property voters in the two cities was illegal. In the Pawtucket case, City Solicitor Blodgett and Edward D. Bassett, counsel for the respondents, give five reasons for the dismissal of the application for the writ of certiorari. They say that it appears that the notice by the assessors requiring accounts to be brought in by personal property taxpayers was legal, that the list certified to the city treasurer is in accord with the provisions of the statutes; that it does not appear by the application that any illegal list other than a copy of the tax assessment was delivered to the board of canvassers by the tax assessors; that it does not appear that the board of assessors in any way exceeded its jurisdiction, and that it does not appear that the canvassers have in any way exceeded their authority by placing names upon the list of persons entitled to vote. In addition to the reasons given in the Pawtucket case the respondents in the Central Falls case allege that the assessors properly assessed the tax June 6, 1911, and that it does not appear in the application that the persons in the $200 personal property tax list did not possess such amount of ratable estate. It is also claimed that the board of canvassers, in performing the several acts mentioned in the eleventh paragraph of the application, acted in a ministerial and not in a judicial capacity. The motion to dismiss the petition in the Central Falls case is signed by John N. Butman, city solicitor, and Edward D. Bassett as counsel.

Dennis H. Sheahan, a well known Providence attorney and prominent in Democratic circles, died at the McDonnell homestead, Wickford, Tuesday after an illness which manifested itself last June, in his fifty-first year. He was a member of the common council from the Third Ward of Providence for three years and of the board of aldermen for one year. Before being graduated from Brown University in 1885, he had assumed an activity in politics which resulted in his appointment as reading clerk of the house of representatives in 1887, a position which he retained for three years. The following year he was elected to the common council, and served in all seven years in that capacity. In 1902, he was a member of the board of aldermen. He was a member of the board of examiners of the Rhode Island Normal School in 1891 and a member of the Rhode Island commission to the Jamestown Ter-centennial Exposition in 1907. He was also secretary of the Democratic city committee for two years. At one time he was a member of the First Light Infantry regiment, but resigned after two years through inability to attend to the drills because of business cares. He became a member of Burnside Camp, Sons of Veterans, and took a considerable interest in the affairs of that organization. About five years ago he was appointed by Division Commander Herbert Briggs as division counsellor, corresponding to judge advocate in other military organizations, which position he retained until his death. He was taken ill early in the summer and was obliged to discontinue his practice in June, going with his family to Wickford to spend the summer. Upon the advice of his physicians, however, he shortly afterward went to Cumberland, where he remained at the Trappist Monastery. A short time ago he was removed to the East Side Hospital and about two weeks ago went to Wickford. Death was due to cirrhosis of the liver and kidney complications.

TEA AND COFFEE.

[Boston Transcript.]

As we have before observed, very seldom is the heart of the American tourist in Great Britain gladdened by coffee such as mother used to make. Usually the coffee served in British hotels is fearful and wonderful. It is produced only after a long delay, during which you become convinced that it is made in answer to your individual order, and probably you are right. So little is coffee used by the Britons that making it is not with them even the beginning of an art. The Britons do not care for coffee themselves, hence their ignorance of how to treat the fragrant berry. So small is the quantity of coffee consumed that the board of trade has recently issued a report on the subject, the implication being that greater use of the article would be of aid to the revenue. This official intimation has set the London newspapers to discussing the whys and wherefores of popular disinclination for coffee, and the consensus of opinion is that the British cook is to blame. She does not know, and will not learn how to make coffee, resting her reputation on tea.

The cook is no exception to "like mistress, like maid," for the preference for tea is British. The British empire is circled by the grateful stream of the teapot. Wherever Britons go they carry the love of tea with them. Coffee is distinctly foreign. The board of trade's returns leave no doubt of the Britons' preference for tea over coffee being deliberate, a distinct assertion of racial purpose not to emulate foreign examples. The great tea-consuming countries of the world are headed by New Zealand with the record of 7.45 pounds per capita; then follow Australia, 6.93 pounds; the United Kingdom, 6.39 pounds; Canada 4.43 pounds. Russia and the United States average less than one pound per capita, respectively .90 and .89 pound.

Perhaps we have fallen into the error that we are the greatest coffee consuming nation on the face of the earth. If we have, we must fall out of it, for Holland holds the record with 15.12 pounds per capita, and Belgium is second with 10.90 pounds. We are third, our per capita consumption being 9.33 pounds. France is fourth, but at a considerable distance from us. Frenchmen get along with 6.36 pounds as their per capita record, which leads that of Germany by .46 pound. Great Britain barely gets a place for if the whole amount of coffee consumed in the United Kingdom was divided by the number of the population thereof it would give the result of about two-thirds of a pound, or as the board of trade with greater precision puts it, "0.65 lb." Great Britain is at the foot of the coffee-drinking class of the nations.

THE WEATHER.

BOSTON, Oct. 11.—Forecast for Boston and vicinity—Unsettled, generally fair tonight; Thursday fair, light, variable winds.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

There is much unsettled and overcast weather in all districts except the southwest and in the Missouri and upper Mississippi valleys, where fair weather and much clear sky exists. There have been light to moderate amounts of precipitation during the past 24 hours in the lower Lake region and middle states, while in southern districts heavy rains are reported at many stations. The pressure is above the normal in all eastern districts except the Maritime Provinces. The western trough of depression has weakened and now extends along the eastern slope of the Rocky mountains. The high pressure area on the northern Pacific slope has also diminished. No substantial changes in temperature have occurred, in New York at 8 a. m. it was 58, Washington 60, Jacksonville 76, St. Louis 52, Chicago 54, St. Paul 46, Des Moines 46, Kansas City 52, San Francisco and Portland, Oregon 52.

THE BOND CASE AGAIN.

Suit to Recover from Sureties, Judgment Having Been Obtained.

Decisions for Plaintiffs in Several Other Matters Before Trial Begins.

Judge Rathbun took his seat in the superior court at 9:33 this morning. There was a full attendance of members of the bar, including former Congressman Sheffield, and Colonel Ambrose Kennedy, of Governor Pothier's staff.

In R. J. Elderer Netting Company vs. Raymond J. Anderton, Judge Burke for plaintiff and Mr. Nolan for defendant, defendant submitted to judgment for $475; no costs.

Three or four cases were ready for trial and the array of counsel about the green table looked as if a battle royal was impending.

The usual "calm which precedes" etc., was broken by a call to the jury box for a new panel, as follows: Herbert L. Willis, Jamestown; George C. Hambly, Tiverton; James X. Devine, J. Alton Barker, Edwin J. Saulpaugh, Newport; Arthur P. Carter, Little Compton; Herbert W. Smith, John F. Sullivan, Joseph J. Dence, Newport; John L. C. Harrington, Portsmouth; Conrad Seibel, 2d., Tiverton; Arthur H. Easton, Newport, foreman. There was no challenge.

From Mr. Levy's opening it was learned that the case to be tried was that of Israel J. Josephson vs. Louis and Morris David, an action in trespass and ejectment to regain possession of certain premises at 18 Johnson's court. The case comes from the district court.

Mr. M. A. Sullivan appeared for defendants, but apparently his clients were among the missing, and after plaintiff had testified briefly, the court directed a verdict for plaintiff for possession, 10 cents damages, and costs.

Then there was another season of silence, after which Norberry vs. Buckley, by agreement of Messrs. Nolan and Levy, was sent to Clark Burdick as auditor. Again there was quiet.

Jacob Mirman vs. Samuel Berman was taken up, plaintiff testifying that defendant is owing his $225.20. Decision for plaintiff for that amount.

Jones Anthony and Frank P. King, sheriffs, vs. William K. Boyd et al. was next, the green table proving too small for all who tried to gather about it. The following jurors were called: George C. Hambly, Conrad Seibel, 2d., Tiverton; J. Alton Barker, Joseph J. Dence, James X. Devine, John F. Sullivan, Newport; Herbert L. Willis, Jamestown; Herbert W. Smith, Arthur H. Easton, Newport; Arthur T. Carter, Little Compton; William M. Bull, New Shoreham; John L. C. Harrington, Portsmouth; Philip Stevens, Newport, Edwin J. Saulpaugh, Axel F. Swenson, William M. Bull, John F. Sullivan, John L. C. Harrington and Philip Stevens were challenged. Then it was announced that there were no more jurors to call, and a recess was taken.

From the statement of the case by Mr. MacLeod it appeared that the sheriffs appear for William F. Luther, who is the real plaintiff, and Luther P. Chase is the other defendant. Mr. Burdick is senior counsel for plaintiff, and Messrs. Sheffield, Harvey and Franklin were present for defendants.

The two cases of Amanda A. Blackman vs. Mary E. Beckwith and C. Royal Blackman vs. same are settled. Messrs. Sheffield, Levy and Harvey were for plaintiffs, Mr. Nolan for defendant.

The second jury was then completed, David Goggin of Newport was called, and after counsel had studied a while was challenged. Edward A. Hassard of Newport was then called. Another challenge was seen going in; it took off Mr. Hassard and Mr. Seibel. Rufus F. Peckham of Little Compton and John J. Watson, of Jamestown were called. Again the lawyers and clients consulted and again Mr. MacLeod stated that it was a suit on a bond, given to the sheriffs by William K. Boyd and Luther P. Chase of Portsmouth. After some time another challenge went in and Arthur T. Carter was excused. Alexander Erickson of Newport was called. There was more careful consideration and the jury was declared satisfactory. Mr. Watson was appointed foreman.

Mr. MacLeod opened, for plaintiffs. The bond was given to release an attachment made in a case brought by William F. Luther, July 10, 1910, against William L. Tallman and Emma Tallman, the ad damnum being $3,000, and the bond for that sum, with William K. Boyd and Luther P. Chase as sureties. In December, 1910, William F. Luther obtained judgment for $2,600, which has never been paid. Therefore the sureties are now sued.

Deputy Sheriff King testified. He identified the signatures of the Tallmans, Mr. Boyd and Mr. Chase, all being made in his presence. Nothing in the bond was changed after these signed, or added except witness's signature as witness. He went out July 12 and attached the real estate, and the right, title and interest of William L. and Emma A. Talkman to personal property on the farm. He put in a keeper. Has learned since that some of the personal property belonged to the estate of Lorenzo Tallman. He filled out the bonds and put on the seals in the sheriff's office, Newport. There were two cases, and he took two bonds.

The Tallmans signed both bonds at their house, first. Then they went to John Borden's. Bound him in the corn field. Had an automobile and traveled pretty fast. Mr. Borden said he would not go on a bond for his brother. Then they went to Mr. Brown, then to Mr. Boyd, who was in the baryard. Mr. Tallman told Mr. Boyd he had growing crops. If he could harvest them he could pay up. They had a private talk and Mr. Boyd said he would go on the bond. He signed with witness's pen, on the roof of a dog house or hen house. Nothing was said about John Borden. Mr. Boyd asked his liability and witness said if Mr. Tallman did not pay Mr. Boyd would have to pay.

The other bond was shown witness, who testified about the signatures on first. They went again to John L. Borden, who said he had changed his mind. When he knew Mr. Boyd had signed he declined to sign, and they went to Mr. Chase's.

It being 12:47, a recess to 2 P. M. was taken and spare jurors were excused to Friday morning at 9:30.

POLICE NOTES.

There were two cases of drunkenness at the police station this morning; one paid, the other expected to pay. A man came in Tuesday night and asked to be sent up for a home for the winter, and he started for the winter's rest this morning. From Tiverton came Chief Manchester with a man charged with assault, who paid $16.20.

Inspector Tobin went to Providence Tuesday, secured extradition papers for the girl in New Rochelle wanted here for larceny, and left last night for Albany.

Janitor Levi Jackson of the police station is on his annual vacation.

TO GIVE TWO CONCERTS.

Oratorio Society Preparing Fine Program of Musical Works for Winter Season.

The Oratorio Society, formed last April under the direction of Mr. Victor Baxter, starts its second season with bright prospects. The rehearsal Tuesday evening brought together a large body of singers, many of them in the professional rank. As was to be expected, those who were in the last concert were glad again to put themselves under the leadership of Mr. Baxter and many new singers were present. In Mr. Baxter's foreword, he greeted familiar faces with pleasure, was glad to see new ones and welcomed all.

The works to be given this season are in some respects even more pretentious than that sung last May—Spohr's "Last Judgment"—and some choruses require eight voices. The society will give two concerts this season, December 7 and March 6. For the first the program will be miscellaneous, embracing Mendelssohn's "The First Walpurgis Night," Gounod's "Gallia" Tschaikowsky's "Nature and Love" and Brahms's "Where'er I Go." The program is for the most part secular and the concert will be given in a hall, which has already been engaged. The soloists will be taken from the ranks of the chorus, and will be announced to the society next week.

As was inevitable on the opening night, there was some delay because of the distribution of the music and the assigning of parts. It started with vim, however, the chorus entering into the spirit of the music with earnestness. If enthusiasm is any criterion, the season promises to be successful and Newport music lovers will again have an opportunity to listen to a program of the classical and best, that given by a mixed chorus of their own townspeople.

ELECTION NIGHT AND ELECTION EVE SOCIALS.

There is to be an Irish night on election day night, November 7, under the auspices of the Kerrymen's Association, which has arranged with the Hannifin Brothers and Messrs. Keleher and Finlay to be present. There will be exhibition Irish reels and jigs, and an Irish polka set. Mr. Keleher, who is the champion Irish jig and reel dancer will give an exhibition with the "Rose of Killarney" and other attractions will be presented.

As usual for some years past the Hartenders' Union will have its annual social November 6, the eve of election. As election is a closed day for them, they naturally have selected the eve for their annual ball, as there is no work the next morning.

AWARDS FOR NEW FLOWERS.

At the regular meeting of the Newport Horticultural Society Tuesday evening Mr. W. E. Tricker, representing C. H. Totty of Madison, N. J., exhibited two new flowers. One was a handsome yellow rose, not yet placed on the market, but which has been shown about the country and secured prizes or encomiums wherever seen. That it was the real thing in the rose line was shown by the fact that the Newport Society gave it its silver medal, which is the highest praise it could receive. The John Shoveller, which carnation, which received a first-class certificate of merit. The rose is called the "Sunburst" and the carnation "Woodenthe."

BIDS FOR NAVY SUPPLIES.

The following bids were opened today at the navy pay office:

For 44 barrels Portland cement—A. & H. G. Hammett, $59.40; Darling & Slade, $61.60; John M. Friend, $61.60.

For repairing, re-papering and re-upholstering cottage No. 1 at the Training Station—Joseph Graham, $169.50; Hayman & Nason, $175.

For 500 panes glass for the Training Station—Peckham Company, $55.90; S. W. Coggeshall, $105.50; W. B. Scott & Co., $103.54; J. B. F. Smith, $120.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Derelict destroyer Seneca was in port this morning.

—Mrs James A. Gately has returned from an extended visit to New York.

—Schooner Pocasset is discharging a cargo of ice for the Newport Fisheries and Ice Company.

—Mrs. Stuart Duncan has closed "Egerston" and Mr. G. M. Hutton has closed "Shamrock Cliff" for the season.

—Tug W. G. Small of the dredging plant has been inspected and returned to work. Tug Gaspee has arrived from New Bedford, where she was overhauled.

—W. D. Sloan and W. T. Colby of Syracuse, W. G. Lynch, J. H. Morrison and H. A. Thompson of New York and H. C. Libbey, W. J. Stuart and G. F. Stone of Boston are registered at the Perry House.

—Mr. Joseph E. Kline of Middletown reported this morning that an automobile had run through a stone wall on his property during the night. He decided that it was an automobile from the tracks in the vicinity. A closer inspection of the tracks left by the vehicle led to the belief that it was a joy riders' party.

—The weather today is of the threatening sort, and all who look ahead are afraid there will be poor weather for the parade Thursday. The weather man has a more cheerful feeling, and while he predicts rain for tonight also predicts pleasant weather for tomorrow. People generally hope he will prove right.

—The Sakonnet River Oyster Company landed seven barrels of fish today and Charles Allen one. There was a new skipper in, the Newport Fisheries Company, with one barrel. Captain Maxfield put his trap in Tuesday and this morning had his first catch of the season, cod, hake, whiting, bluefish, flounders, shiners and a variety of others being included.

—General Erasmus M. Weaver, chief of artillery, and formerly stationed at Fort Adams, arrived at the fort this morning on mine planter Gen. R. T. Frank and was received with the customary salute at 8 o'clock. He came to make an inspection of the artillery in this district and after inspecting Fort Adams left on the launch for Forts Wetherill, Getty, Greble and Kearney.

—There was a runaway about 9:30 this morning. W. T. Peckham's milk wagon was the main performer and when the horse swept through upper Thames street, usually a quiet place, it looked like the real thing. The wheels of the milk wagon caught the wheels of a buggy standing in front of Marlborough Market and the buggy was turned around. Each vehicle lost one wheel and the runaway milk horse was stopped.

A GENERAL HOLIDAY.

Many Business Establishments to Assist in Celebrating Columbus Day.

Sports, Parade and Banquet, Fire Works, Concert and Illumination.

Thursday, Columbus day, will be generally observed as a holiday. The banks, public offices and schools will be closed for the day and all the stores in many lines of business, including the dry goods butchers, grocers, fish markets, barbers and clothing establishments will not be opened. The committee of Italian citizens, under whose direction the celebration will take place, has arranged a diversified program of sports in the morning, a parade and banquet in the afternoon, and a fireworks display at Easton's beach and a band concert on Washington square in the evening. There promises to be a quite general display of bunting in honor of the day, and the committee has arranged for an illumination of Washington square and the Mall with strings of electric lights.

The Italian committee and the committee of the Knights of Columbus completed the arrangements for the parade Tuesday evening and Newport will see another excellent procession. Chief Boatswain Christopher J. Cooper, U. S. N., is chief marshal, with Grand Knight William H. Tobin of the Knights of Columbus as chief of staff. The line will be made up as follows:

Chief Marshal Christopher J. Cooper, in command.
William H. Tobin, chief of staff; Lieutenant Colonel M. J. Kelly of the Hibernian Rifles, P. H. Costello of Division No. 1, A. O. H.; P. R. Condon of Division No. 3, A. O. H., and R. Pasqualetti, representing the Italian societies, as aides.
Platoon of police, Sergeant M. J. Conroy in command.
First Division.
Training Station Band.
Naval Brigade, ten companies, Chief Boatswain John Davis, brigade commander; Chief Turret Captain O. P. Kilme, brigade adjutant.
First battalion, Boatswain J. J. O'Brien, battalion commander.
Bugle squad.
Second battalion, Mate William McKay, battalion commander.
Hospital Corps.
Rhode Island Naval Reserves, Lieutenant Charles B. Lawton, commanding.
Hibernian Rifles, Lieutenant Commander M. J. Kelley, commanding.
Second Division.
Seventh Artillery Band.
His Honor the Mayor and members of the Board of Aldermen.
Newport Council, No. 256, Knights of Columbus, Joseph Kirby marshal.
Division No. 1, Ancient Order of Hibernians, Edward C. Sullivan president.
Division No. 2, Ancient Order of Hibernians, John J. O'Connell president.
Third Division.
Newport Military Band.
Star of Italy, Uniformed Branch of Italian Brotherhood, Victor Ruggeri commander.
Italian Brotherhood Benefit Society, P. Baccari president.
Italian Progresso Benefit Society, John P. Pinto president.

The line will be formed on Broadway and move promptly at 2 o'clock over the following route: Washington square, Thames street, Narragansett avenue, Spring and Pelham streets, Bellevue avenue, Kay street, Powel avenue and Broadway. It will be review at the City Hall by the mayor and aldermen and be dismissed on Washington square.

In the forenoon the football game for the Italian societies' cup will be played on the Civic League lot, starting at 10:30, and the Marathon race, also for the Italians' cup, will be started at 11:30 from the Young Men's Christian Association building on Mary street.

The banquet by the Italian societies will take place in Music hall at 3 o'clock, Mayor Boyle, members of the Board of Aldermen, state representatives and others being guests of the societies. The following menu will be served:

Oysters on Half Shell
Consommo
Celery Onions Tomatoes
Roast Beef Roast Chicken
Chicken Salad
Ice Cream Cake
Crackers Cheese
Fruit
Coffee
Cigars
Cognac
Chianti.

The fireworks display at Easton's beach will start at 7 o'clock, and the committee says it will begin on time. The display will include many novelties to Newport, with a number of special Italian fireworks. These have been discharged during Italian celebrations in Providence in closely built-up sections and are said not to be dangerous to the on-lookers. The committee assures the public that there is no danger from them and that women and children can enjoy them without fear.

Following the fireworks display there will be a concert on Washington square by the Newport Military Band, arranged by the committee for the enjoyment of the public and beginning at 8:30 o'clock. At 9 there will be a ball in Music hall for the Italian residents.

This evening Newport Council, Knights of Columbus, will have its annual ball in Masonic hall.

Tuesday evening the Knights of Columbus started to decorate their clubrooms in the Gas block and throughout the city the Italians, who are always among the most industrious in decorating for any public time, are busy putting out bunting and pictures of Columbus for the day. Italian flags are joined with American in many places, making a pretty combination.

The Mall has been wired with a string of incandescent lights, which crosses in front of the Sheffield house, runs along among the trees on either side and crosses again just east of the flagpole. There should be no trouble about the park being illuminated when the band plays.

Masonic Hall has been decorated by Wilmarth, and Phelan has attended to the floral work for the Knights of Columbus ball.

In common with other places, the People's Library will be closed.

The shops at the Torpedo Station will close, a majority of the men having expressed a desire to have the day off.

The football teams to compete for the cup offered by the Italian committee were definitely decided upon today, the Naval Training Station and the Seaman Gunners of the Torpedo Station. Gunner's Mate (second class) F. A. Davis is captain of the Torpedo Station eleven and Yeoman Dorsey, captain of the Training Station team, and both are confident of offering an interesting game.

The Newport Artillery Company and the Newport Naval Reserves were invited to participate in the parade. The Reserves held a special meeting Tuesday evening and voted to parade, while the Artillery Company had its regular drill and voted not to parade.

ANNUAL BAZAAR.

Women's Circles of Union Congregational Church Have Successful Opening of Fair.

The members of the Union Congregational Church opened their annual bazaar Tuesday evening under the direction of the various women's circles. The booths are arranged about the sides of the rooms, with the wares offered for sale attractively arranged. The fancy work booth was in charge of Circle A, Mrs. William D. Berry chairman; Circle B, Mrs. Thomas Johnson chairman, had novelties; Circle C, Miss Anna Cole chairman, groceries; the apron booth was in the care of Circle D, Mrs. Joseph Forrester chairman; the pastry booth was in charge of Circle E, Mrs. Peter W. Townsend chairman; and Circle F, Miss Edith Buchanan chairman, had a miscellaneous table. There were in addition a candy booth, a lemonade well and a postoffice. Circle B had charge of the supper room for the evening, and others will take up this duty during the other evenings.

During the evening there was an entertainment, consisting of piano solos by Chauncey Miller and Miss Eunice Berry, a vocal solo by Miss Romona Miller and a reading by Miss Gertrude McCaster. Different programs will be arranged for the other evenings. There was a good attendance and much interest was shown in the bazaar, which promises to be one of the most successful ever held by the church. Rev. Mr. Kingley, the pastor, contributed in many ways to the success of the fair.

NEW WIRELESS TOWER CONNECTED.

The new wireless telegraph tower at the Torpedo Station was Tuesday connected with the wireless outfit and now both towers are in operation. The antennae are much higher in the air and are so located as to be able to pick up much more than was possible with the single tower. It was but to celebrate this connecting of the new towers, however, that the whistle at the station was much Tuesday from 2:30 to 4 p. m. That was a test of the new whistle, and was also a test of the capacity of the station to furnish steam. Both tests seem to have been successful.

SUES GIRL FOR MONEY SPENT IN HER COMPANY.

Peter B. Hall of Meriden, Conn., has sued Miss Theresa Aichler to recover $12.53, which he said he spent while in her company from June 7 to 22, 1910. The bill of particulars contains a number of entries for trolley fares, ranging from a nickel to a quarter. Other entries include these: Ice cream, 10 cents; supper, 45 cents; meal at New Haven, 63 cents; trolley to Savin Rock to and from New Haven, 10 cents; shore dinners, $1; hiring horse and wagon, $1; chocolate, 35 cents; hiring horse at Willimantic, $1.50; supper at Hartford, 60 cents; tip to waiter, 25 cents.

OHIO LEADS IN NUMBER.

Many Subordinate Granges Organized in Many States in 1911.

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 11.—It is announced from the headquarters in this city of the National Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, that during the year ending October 1 there were 450 new subordinate granges organized in 27 different states, and 60 granges re-organized in 17 states, making the largest gain in any one year since 1876. The state of Ohio leads in the number of new granges with 50. A new state grange is to be organized the last of this month in Nebraska.

THE ISTALENA AT FAULT.

Decision of Regatta Committee in Matter of Collision With the Juanita Off This Port.

The regatta committee of the New York Yacht Club rendered its decision in the matter of the collision of sloops Istalena and Juanita at the start of the race for the Astor cups for sloops, off this port August 10. The following is the closing clause in the committee's decision:

"After weighing all the testimony it is the opinion of the committee that the circumstances just before the collision did not justify the Istalena in calling for room; that the Istalena could have continued her course on the port tack and to the weather of the Juanita for some distance further without paying off before there would have been risk of a foul with the Avenger; that if by so continuing a risk of a foul with the Avenger had been imminent then the Istalena could have made a choice of either going about on the starboard tack and still have cleared the light vessel, or of passing under the stern of the Avenger. It is therefore the committee's finding that the Istalena was at fault."

NEW DESTROYER IN COMMISSION.

The Patterson Expected to Eclipse Average Speed of 35 Knots on Her Official Trip.

The new torpedo boat destroyer Patterson, which was delivered to the government last Saturday by the Cramp Shipbuilding Company, was Tuesday placed in commission at the Philadelphia navy yard.

The Patterson on her builders' trial trip developed an average speed of nearly 35 knots an hour. This record is expected to be eclipsed on her official trip, which will be the latter part of this month off the New England coast. Her engines are of 12,000 horse-power. The guns have not yet been mounted. This will be done at the Boston navy yard, where the vessel will go in a few days to prepare for final trials.

ITALY IN TRIPOLI.

at last been actually effected, apparently with little trouble and with little loss of life. It was not expected to prove a formidable job, for the fortifications were obsolete and the garrison small, and there was no possibility of Turkey's reinforcing the place, because of her powerlessness at sea. The case affords another apt illustration of the commanding influence of sea power. The same causes and conditions will doubtless make it easy for Italy to maintain her hold on Tripoli, and generally on the littoral and Cyrenaica. Turkey, at any rate, will not be able to send thither any force capable of dislodging her.

But the littoral is one thing and the hinterland is another, and the latter is the greater of the two. The most important part of the population of Tripoli is too far inland to fear the guns of Italian warships, and dealing with those tribes may prove to be a much more formidable task than knocking to pieces a few mediaeval fortifications. The French found the Algerian tribes tough customers, and indeed have by no means yet subdued them all. It is not known that the Senoussi and others on the borders of the Barcan desert are any more tractable or more inclined to submission to the Giaour. Of course the Italian army is superior to them in a military sense. So it was superior to the Abyssinians, but it came to grief in Eritrea.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—General and Mrs. J. Fred Pierson will go to Ramapo, N. J., after closing their Newport residence October 20.

—Mrs. Alfred B. Wilbour of Boston is visiting her father, Mr. George N. Taylor, on Charles street, this city.

—Mr. Benjamin Northup, who has been visiting in this city for the past few days, returned to Providence today.

—Mrs. B. C. Pierce and Miss L. M. Hart of this city are registered at the Hotel Woodstock, Times Square East, New York.

—John W. Dorey has taken the cottage at 8 Cotton's court, owned by the W. H. Cotton estate, through the agency of Simeon Hazard.

—Mrs. Thomas Power, Miss Mary Power, Mrs. William Brightman and Mrs. Henry Groff have returned from a week's visit in New York.

—Dr. Kate Stanton, who takes her exercise in the form of long walks, Tuesday made the 12-mile circuit of the Ocean Drive, without special fatigue.

—The orders of Chief Boatswain Stephen McCarthy, detaching him from the Torpedo Station and ordering him to the Glacier, on the Pacific coast, have been revoked.

—A party of members and friends of the Epworth League of the First Methodist Episcopal Church Tuesday evening had a lively straw ride in a big moving wagon, going around the Ocean Drive.

—Mr. and Mrs. Ogden L. Mills (Miss Margaret Rutherfurd) arrived in New York Tuesday on steamship Kronprinzessin Cecilie and will make their home in that city. Mr. Mills and Miss Rutherfurd were married last month at Trouville, France.

—The telephone company is now inspecting the entire outside plant, preparatory to repairs for the winter. Of course extreme storms cannot be provided for, but it is the purpose to guard against winter interference of service so far as is possible.

—Colonel Samuel R. Honey, who has been making Europe his residence in recent years, is expected in this country in November, accompanied by Mrs. Honey, it is understood. He will visit his daughter, Mrs. Josiah Quincy, in Boston, and very likely will make a visit to Newport.

—Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Dorothy Chipman of Winnipeg, daughter of the high commissioner of the Hudson Bay Company, to Mr. Roswell C. Colt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel P. Colt of Bristol. Mrs. Colt has recently returned from a visit to Winnipeg.

—Mr. Dennis H. Sheahan of Providence, who died Tuesday at Wickford, had many friends in Newport, having been an annual visitor here at the time of the inauguration of the state government in former years, and more recently in connection with the organization of the local camp of the Sons of Veterans.

—Miss Edith Brevoort Kane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grenville Kane, whose marriage to George F. Baker, Jr., will take place at Tuxedo Saturday, will be attended by her sister, Miss Dorothy Kane, as bridesmaid, and by the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius S. Lee and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Goadby Loew as pages.

—Captain Petersen of steamship Kansas, which has arrived at New York from Copenhagen, reports that September 30, at 11:30 in the morning, he passed auxiliary bark-rigged yacht Aloha, Mr. Arthur Curtiss James, New York Yacht Club, from New York for Southampton, England, in latitude 47:03, longitude 44.47. The Aloha left New York September 21.

A VERDICT FOR $350.

First Award, for $500, Revised After Further Charge and Consultation.

Decision for the Plaintiff in the Automobile Case Brought by Mr. Olmsted.

Tuesday afternoon the session of the superior court was continued, Judge Rathbun presiding, the case of Olmsted vs. Baker Motor Vehicle Company proceeding.

In cross-examination, plaintiff said they were talking of Stanhopes and he was told they had a good second-hand one which they took back from Dr. Blodgett of Boston. Plaintiff never buys second-hand machines. Did not ask for one. He believes all machines are sold at too high prices; probably said so. There was not the slightest suggestion that it would be better to buy a second-hand machine to be used until he had learned to run one.

"What is your profession?" asked Mr. Levy. "Now I'm a huckleberry farmer," said Mr. Olmsted; he had been a banker. He had never seen a storage battery—didn't know the difference between one and a fish net when he went in to see these people. "But you have given a graphic description of one," said Mr. Levy. "Ah—I have learned it—by rather sad experience," replied Mr. Olmsted.

He doesn't go out rainy days; did that day, much to his disgust. Was surprised that they came in the rain. It was very windy and they were gone about 10 minutes. They ran west toward Mr. Davis's; it is not hilly; only rolling country, very smooth roads, and mostly level. The next time they took the same road. They were entirely on the Ocean Drive, went as far as "Beak House." It was mostly little runs, as he was very awkward. It took about three quarters of an hour that day, and that was the day he paid for it.

He knew practically nothing about the machine—took their word. They put in a new battery and put on the new tires—but the machine did not run. They said it would equal the new machine in their office and he believed their statements. He expected just as much, in mileage, as from a new one; otherwise he would not have touched it. It turned out to be just what he had not desired.

He has a poor opinion of the Baker machine. He had preferred electricity. In 1909 he bought a gasoline machine. He used the Baker through the season of 1908; had horses also. The batteries were cared for by Mr. Mason. The machine was left over night, or over a day, to be re-charged.

In 1908 he received a specially directed circular, and took it that they were ready to trade. He thought them cheeky, but wrote to ask how they would trade. He was still leaning towards electric machines. Had seen a new one in New York which he thought might be good. He offered to give his first Stanhope, and $1,000 for a new one. They had offered to allow him $300; he suggested it should be $500. He was not anxious to have another electric, but he had heard the new model was remarkably good and was willing to "stop the suit" and make a trade. He always has believed in settling suits out of court. They made the proposition; he replied.

He objected to paying in the first place, before trying the machine. It is still in his stable. Consulted his counsel when the machine was found again in his stable, after he had written them to take it and return his $350. The $350 was not sent by mail; it was handed to Mr. Sturtevant, relying entirely on all that had been said, on his plea that they would lose credit if they did not have money.

Witness showed the acid-rotted wooden grating on which the batteries had rested and which had broken soon after the machine came to him, and been replaced by Mr. Mason.

Plaintiff rested.

Mr. Levy opened for defendant, claiming, among other things, that plaintiff's inexperience must have been responsible if the machine did not travel as far as it should have done.

Carl Bostel was called to the stand. He has lived in Newport six years and his business is automobiles. He was branch manager here for defendant. Does not know where Mr. Sturtevant is; he was last heard of in Baltimore, about two years ago; he was a salesman, with no authority to bind the company.

Mr. Olmsted had a talk about automobiles. He was then what's called "lukewarm." Sold him a 1905 Stanley. He stepped in whenever he was on the Avenue. He didn't wish to pay $1,800 for a Stanhope. He made offers far below prices and they concluded all they could do would be in something second-hand. They never expected to sell him any car, and didn't even go over to the garage when he went to see the one he bought. He went and saw it and bought it. Never told him it would run 50 miles on a single charge. Did not represent to him that this second-hand machine would run as well as a new one. There was a great difference in construction between the 1905 and 1907 cars. The latter did not use as much power. The progress is such that now 241 miles have been made on a single charge.

Witness was in charge of the thorough overhauling and renewing of the 1905 car, in June, before Mr. Olmsted bought it. It was used here for demonstrating—when they try to have the best. They also used it as a "chaser." It made at least 28 miles a day with the old batteries. New batteries of the best type were put in, before delivery to Mr. Olmsted. It was tested and gave 4 hours and 20 minutes at 28 amperes. It was practically as good as new when delivered to Mr. Olmsted.

The regular custom is that, after a demonstration, the car is paid for before delivery. After the car had gone over several times the check came by mail. Mr. Olmsted had three days in which he might have tested the machine. The only test of a battery's discharge is one continuous run; if run in "relays" the capacity is less. If a battery is "run out" or left wholly or partly discharged, it injures it; this was done by Mr. Olmsted.

The broken grating is saturated with sulphuric acid—nothing but glass and rubber can stand this and a week is enough to rot the wood. It comes from carelessness. The battery weighs 300 pounds, and the conditions in this case show the grating was a good one. Mr. Olmsted did not complain that the machine would not run 50 miles. Nobody said it would, so far as witness knows. It all depends on the skill of the operator to secure the full mileage from a car.

In all Mr. Olmsted's talk he was referring to new cars. After he bought the second-hand machine they did not see him; all the intercourse was by mail. The 1907 catalogue states that they do not warrant any battery, and Mr. Sturtevant had no authority to vary from this. Witness did not do so.

Mr. Olmsted after first seeing the second-hand car wrote making an offer of what he would pay if the car was satisfactory after he tried it. At the time of his second offer, after running the machine, it would have cost $400 to make it fit to sell. The value of automobiles shrinks rapidly. A new car is never allowed to go out until paid for; the least evidence on a tire that a car has been run would subject it to being considered second-hand. Mr. Olmsted had evidently obtained his information about cars from his "neighbor."

In cross-examination witness said he was present at every interview but one when Mr. Olmsted was talking automobile. He never said he didn't care for second-hand machines. The capacity of the 1905 car was 40 miles. After it had gone several times to Mr. Olmsted witness told Mr. Sturtevant they would have to send for it if the check did not come in soon. Mr. Sturtevant went with the car the first time, taking the bill according to automobile custom, but not bringing back any check.

The receipted bill was shown, dated August 8, and put in the case. Mr. Levy also offered a 1907 catalogue, 1907 calender, letters of August 3, September 9, etc.

Witness said the mileage capacity is based on level roads. Makers select the best roads in order to obtain the best possible results. The rating of a

PIMPLES ON FACE 3 YEARS

"I was troubled with acne for three long years. My face was the only part affected, but it caused great disfigurement, and suffering and loss of sleep. At first there appeared red, hard pimples which later contained white matter. I suffered a great deal caused by the itching. I was in a state of perplexity when walking the streets or anywhere before the public.

"I used pills and other remedies but they failed completely. I thought of giving up when nothing would help, but something told me to try the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I sent for a Cuticura Booklet which I read carefully. Then I bought some Cuticura Soap and Ointment and by following the directions I was relieved in a few days. I used Cuticura Soap for washing my face, and applied the Cuticura Ointment morning and evening. This treatment brought marvelous results so I continued with it for a few weeks and was cured completely. I can truthfully say that the Cuticura Remedies are not only all, but more than they claim to be." (Signed) G. Baumel, 1015 W. 20th Place, Chicago, Ill., May 28, 1911.

Although Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers throughout the world, a liberal sample of each, with 32-page booklet on skin and hair, will be sent, post-free, on application to "Cuticura," Dept. KK, Boston.

OF FALL RIVER ANCESTRY.

Canada's New Premier a Lineal Descendant of Bay State Stock.

Robert Laird Borden's Forebears Settled in Nova Scotia One Hundred and Fifty Years Ago.

Although Robert Laird Borden, the Conservative leader in Canada and the new premier, made his campaign on the issue of anti-Americanism, he is a descendant of Fall River ancestry and has distant cousins living in the Bay State city, who are among the leading citizens of that municipality. Robert L. Borden and his cousin, Sir Frederick W. Borden, are descendants of Perry Borden, a Fall River youth who went to Nova Scotia 150 years ago and married the daughter of a British army officer.

The story of the beginnings of the Borden family in Nova Scotia is closely intertwined with the story of the Acadians, whose expulsion from the rich fields of the Annapolis valley in and about Grand Pre, has become familiar to thousands of school children through Longfellow's "Evangeline." The Acadians, or the "neutral French," as they were designated, were expelled from their homes in 1755, because they had treated French soldiers kindly. The fertile fields of "Evangeline Land" were thrown open to colonization when the Acadians were scattered far and wide.

The entrance of new settlers called for surveyors to parcel the land among the colonists, many of whom came from New England. Fall River, or Freetown as the community was then called, had a man whose fame in this field had spread well beyond the boundaries of the township. He was Samuel Borden, a great-grandson of Richard Borden, born in 1595, who had emigrated to this country from England in the earliest days of the colony, a grandson of John Borden of Portsmouth, Fall River. He was born in Fall River in 1705, and had become so proficient in the work of surveying, of which his father had taught him the elements, that he was well fitted for the work to be done in Nova Scotia.

In 1760, when a party of some 150 emigrants had been made up to go from Massachusetts to take up the deserted Acadian lands, Mr. Borden was selected by Governor Shirley, the royal governor at Boston, to accompany them, survey the land and have general charge of the location of the colonists on their farms. He took, with him his son, Perry Borden, then 21 years of age, who was destined to be the ancestor of the Bordens now so prominent in the public eye.

Samuel Borden, on completing his duties, returned to Fall River the following year, and lived a retired life on his farm till his death in 1778. Perry Borden, however, remained and in 1761 married Emma Percy, the daughter of a British army officer. She died some years later, leaving two sons. He then married Mary Ellis, who bore him nine sons. Of the 11 boys, all but one made their home in Nova Scotia. The eldest, Samuel, was brought back to Fall River when 18 months of age, while his parents came here on a visit and at the earnest desire of the grandfather, Samuel Borden, was left here with him. He remained until Samuel Borden's death, when he returned to Nova Scotia, but again came back to New England a few years later, in 1781, and engaged in whaling. His only son died unmarried and the male line thus became extinct.

Perry Borden had meantime acquired much of the best land in Acadia and its subsequent rise in value made all his sons independently wealthy. One, Perry Borden, named after his father, was born in 1773 and lived until 1862. He was the father of Andrew Borden, born in 1816, who, in turn, was the father of Robert Laird Borden, the premier who came into the world July 26, 1854, and whose middle name was the maiden name of his mother.

Samuel Borden, the surveyor, was one of a large family, which included two older brothers, Thomas (1697-1749) and Joseph (1702-1736). The descendants of Thomas, the eldest brother, include M. C. D. Borden and his brothers, the late Richard B. and Thomas J. Borden, as well as City Engineer Philip D. Borden, Jerome C. Borden, Jefferson Borden and Colonel Spencer Borden, and of course, Richard P. Borden of Slade & Borden, attorneys, and Charles N. Borden, treasurer of the Richard Borden Manufacturing Company, sons of the late Richard B. Borden. The descendants in the male line of the second brother, Joseph, are less numerous, but include Clerk of Courts Simeon Borden and Nathaniel B. Borden, treasurer of the Barnard Manufacturing Company. Should any one care to compute the degree of relationship, he will find that M. C. D. Borden, Spencer, Jefferson and Jerome C. Borden are fourth cousins of Robert L., while the Fall River city engineer, the clerk of courts, N. B. Borden, R. P. Borden and C. N. Borden are one degree farther removed.

Colonel Joseph Durfee, the promoter of the 1811 mill, the centennial of which has just been observed in Fall River was also of the Joseph Borden branch, as he was the son of Patience Borden, a daughter of Joseph. Joseph Borden met a tragic death in the old fulling mill on Main street, Fall River, which he operated. He was found dead there one day when he had been working alone, and was supposed to have been killed by a blow on the head by a piece of machinery.

PORTSMOUTH.

Town Council and Court of Probate Meets—Second Birthday of Barton Chapter, D. A. R.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

At the monthly meeting of the town council the question of revoking the license of Joseph F. Sullivan was continued to November 3, as his saloon has been closed voluntarily.

Benjamin Tallman, town treasurer, was authorized to renew the insurance on the town hall, the choice of company being left to his discretion.

William F. Brayton and John R. Manchester, Jr., were appointed Republican and Charles Carr, Jr., and Frank C. Cory Democratic supervisors to serve at the election November 7.

Bills allowed and ordered paid were as follows: John B. Cornell, assistance to outside poor, $5; Walter R. Wightman, board of Chester W. Taylor at the state almshouse, 6 6-7 weeks, $20.57; George R. Hicks, bounties paid on skunks, $13; stationery, postage and telephone tolls, $2; Atwell Tucker, three months' salary as keeper of town farm, $90; Owen Reilly, services as town sergeant to October 9, $140; Charles Carr, completing road in front of Friends' meeting house, $32; Thomas J. Sweet, council fees special session, September 25, $10; this session, $8.

In probate court Lillian DeBlois Fox was appointed administratrix, with the will annexed on the estate of Mary A. DeBlois, bond being required in the sum of $10,000, with the Massachusetts Bonding Company as surety.

Francisca Lopes presented her petition, with the will of Antonio M. Lopes, asking that letters testamentary be issued to her as executrix; referred to November 13, with an order of notice.

Henry F. Anthony was again unable to be present, owing to his business.

Colonel William Barton Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, celebrated its second birthday at its chapter home, with 12 members and two guests present by holding a thimble party. Tea, sandwiches, macaroons and cake were served. In honor of the occasion was a pretty birthday cake, frosted with white, bearing the letters "C. W. B." in pink and two pink candles in fancy holders. In the cake were a thimble, a ring, a button and a dime. Mrs. Constant C. Chase drew the ring, Mrs. Seth DeBlois the button and Mrs. Albert C. Hall the dime. It had been planned to give a more elaborate reception but the necessary absence of a number of the members made it unadvisable.

The apple crop, which is unusually large and good this year, seems to find a poor market, the handsomest selling for only $2 per barrel, the farmer to furnish the barrel, for which he pays 25 cents. Twenty-eight barrels of R. I. greenings were picked from one tree last week and many fell from the tree to the ground. Pears are also plentiful, large quantities being left ungathered on the ground.

Mr. Willard S. Brayton and his granddaughter, Miss Edna D. Brayton, have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Brayton of Fall River, where they went to visit a sister of Mr. Brayton, whom he has not seen in many years, and who is visiting here.

During the absence of Mr. Frank L. Tallman at the races, his son, Mr. Curtis Tallman, and family, have been with Mrs. Tallman at "Cozy Corner."

Mr. Robert M. Wyatt is guest of his niece, Mrs. Clarence Davis, and family.

Mrs. Irving Paxne, who has been spending a fortnight with Dr. and Mrs. Francis P. Conway, has gone to Boston.

Mrs. Almerin Ackley, who has been visiting relatives in Newport and this town, has returned to her home in Fall River.

Miss S. Elizabeth Green has returned from a visit to Providence.

Mr. William T. Smith of yacht Felicia is at his home, "The Cedars."

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Macomber, Jr., and family have moved from a house on the East Main road to one on the hill at Sprague street.

Mr. William H. Cross, the Rogers High School graduate who was taken so ill last summer as not to be able to attend the graduation exercises, has been much better but is again confined to bed and under the care of a physician.

Mrs. Hortense Pierce and her daughter, Miss Emily Pierce, who have been spending a fortnight with Mrs. Pierce's sister, Mrs. Blanche Robinson, Dorchester, Mass., have returned to their home.

Mrs. Herbert Kingsley of Foxboro, Mass., Mrs. Frank Kingsley of Fall River and Mr. Charles Smith of Somerset have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith.

A number of Portuguese are planning to return to the Western Islands, this month, some starting today and others on the fifteenth.

Mrs. George F. Grinnell has returned from a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Robert Manchester of Tiverton.

Mr. William B. Franklin, who has been in a serious state of ill health for some time, is so much worse that it has been necessary to call his daughter, Miss Clara Franklin, from Providence to help care for him.

Miss Welch, teacher at the Vaucluse school, spends her Saturdays and Sundays at her home in Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan B. Munro have moved into the house on Butt's hill lately purchased of Mr. Edgar M. Sherman.

Miss Annie Hathaway has returned to her home on Glen street, after a visit of several days in Brockton.

Mr. and Mrs. John Liete, formerly Miss Ada Borden, will begin housekeeping at the "Bee Hive" on Lower lane at once.

Mr. Harry Bartlett, who is a great sufferer from rheumatism, has gone to Los Angeles, hoping the climate will benefit him.

A horse belonging to Mr. Frank Paquin fell into a cesspool in a lot. He finally succeeded in getting his front feet out of the hole, and by hitching a pair of horses to them he was pulled out.

The will of Mrs. Mary A. DeBlois gives to the Methodist Episcopal Church of Portsmouth $1,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Philo Lair and Mr. and Mrs. William Seward Putnam of Gloversville, N. Y., have been guests for the past fortnight of Rev. and Mrs. David C. Loucks. During that time they went to Rye, N. H., to visit Rev. and Mrs. Fenwick, the latter the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Loucks, returning here and spending a few days.

The car men are considering the matter of holding a series of socials during the winter at Oakland hall.

Mrs. Arthur Smith made a bad wound on her left foot a few days ago by stepping on a wire nail, which penetrated between the side of the shoe and the sole so that although the shoe was removed quickly, it was well saturated with blood and she has not yet been able to put on a shoe.

Mr. Frederick Lawton has returned from Lewes, Del., where he has spent the summer as engineer of a fishing steamer.

A VERDICT FOR $350.

car cannot be reached on hilly roads. The hill approaching Mr. Olmsted's house is one of the sharpest and worst in Newport. Stopping and starting, undue use of brake and of the "first speed," waste power, so that a new operator is always 15 or 20 miles short. Witness ran it the day before and was satisfied that the car was doing all it should. A record of what each car did was kept and sent to New York. The company is now out of existence.

William F. Carney of Newport testified. He helped put in the new batteries and ran the machine, afterwards, back from Mr. Olmsted's. It ran out of power and stopped. Did not run it again.

Mr. Levy desired to ask Mr. Olmsted a few more questions. There was no objection and this closed the evidence.

The court asked if counsel could so divide their time as to finish before adjournment. Mr. Burdick said he would not take any more time than Mr. Levy, and the latter began his argument for defendant about 2:44.

To make the machine as good as new meant as good as a new one of 1905—not of the more modern and improved patterns. The talk about mileage was all about a new 1907 model; the second-hand one had not been thought of then. The 1907 catalogue says 50 miles, but also says there is no guarantee. Can it be that a man of the world would hand over $850 to a perfect stranger under such circumstances? he says—to a nervous, trembling man who said he was hard up for money? It is the custom to demand cash on delivery; there is not much credit in the automobile business.

The trouble is that Mr. Olmsted wished to obtain the capacity of a 1907 car from a 1905 model. Where are the electricians to say that the batteries were not the best made? The truth is that Mr. Olmsted did not know how to run the machine. "There is a knack that you have to get." He should have asked for instruction—not gone to a rival concern with the machine. Where is Mason to say the machine was deficient in capacity? It is absurd to use a machine two years and then demand the money back. The simple question is: Was Mr. Olmsted cheated? Anything said by Sturtevant in the absence of Bostel is not binding on the company. Mr. Levy closed at 3:22.

Mr. Burdick argued for plaintiff. This is a case against the company—not Mr. Bostel. It was brought August 20, 1907, and has been waiting since then for trial. The only question is: What were the representations, were they believed, what was the capacity of the machine. Mr. Olmsted says he was told they would make the second-hand machine as good as the 1907—and this is not contradicted. He told them he knew nothing about automobiles and must rely on what they said. They admit that this car was not as good as a 1907 model.

Defendant's banker has been in court all day; why was he not called? Probably for the same reason that Sturtevant and others are not here. The date of the check, August 7, shows it was drawn just as Mr. Olmsted says. Mr. Bostel says it is the ninth; but the check is stamped in New York on the ninth, after going through the Newport Trust Company.

Mr. Olmsted could get only 23 miles out of the car. That meant only 22 miles when the machine arrived at his place. The second year he could get but 20 miles. The car was useless. Repeatedly Mr. Olmsted has offered the car back, and he desires his money; he is entitled to it; it has been of no use; they have only had trouble trying experiments with it, trying to make it run. Mr. Bostel has not questioned that Mason's garage is a proper place to care for automobiles. If the jury thinks the machine has been of use—to Mr. Olmsted—allowance should be made for that; but it was of no use to Mr. Olmsted. Mr. Burdick closed at 3:48.

This morning, after considering, inaudibly, "requests to charge" presented by counsel, in writing, Judge Rathbun, at 10 o'clock, charged the jury in the Olmsted case. Plaintiff sues to recover $850; contending that the agents of defendant guaranteed that the runabout would run 60 miles on a single charge and that it did not do it. He says he explained that it must run the 50 miles in order to do the work he required, and he desired his money back. If he waived his right to have them take the machine back he is entitled to recover the difference between what he paid and what the machine is worth. Plaintiff is suing; he must establish his case by evidence which seems a little more reasonable, a little more probable, which appeals a little more to your common sense.

The court read the requests to charge presented by defendant's counsel. As to Mr. Sturtevant, the court charged that if defendant placed Sturtevant in its salesroom as salesman, it is bound by his statements made in the usual course of business. The catalogue in the case is that of the Baker Motor Vehicle Company of Ohio, an entirely different corporation from defendant. Plaintiff says his attention was called only to the statement of mileage in this catalogue. The case is a short one and the jury will decide on what weight to give the evidence.

Apparently the charge was satisfactory to both sides.

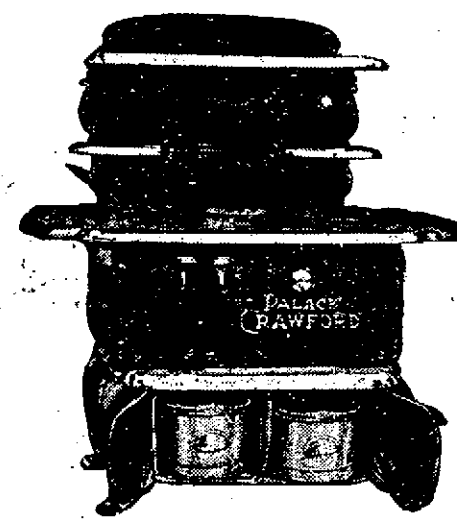

Keeper Romes led out the jury at 10:15 and about 11:30 it returned with a verdict for $500 for plaintiff, defendant to be allowed to have the machine back.

The court conferred for some time with counsel, inaudibly, the conference apparently ending smilingly. There was a resumption, and then, at 11:53, the court gave an additional charge. He said if there is a breach of warranty it would be necessary to find a verdict based on plaintiff's keeping the machine—that is, a verdict for the difference between what was paid and the real value of the machine. The jurors retired and Mr. Levy noted an exception.

Financial problems presented no difficulties to this jury, for before 12:10 it was back again and Foreman Watson announced a verdict for Mr. Olmsted for $350

NEW YORK LETTER.

Business Men Urge the Adoption of a Better Currency System.

Officials Not Enthusiastic Over Columbus Day—New Use for Chemically Preserved Foods.

[Correspondence of The News.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—When the national monetary commission begins its hearing in this city later in the month, it is likely to hear some pretty definite views expressed, not only by financial experts but also by prominent business men of the city, in regard to the injurious influence of our present banking and currency system upon the industrial activities of the country. The business men have figured out that they and not the financiers are the chief sufferers from the delinquencies of the present financial system. They have been trying to estimate their losses from the breakdown of the system in the last panic, the results of which they still keenly feel, and they find that the total runs into so many billions as to be almost unbelievable. A number of the most prominent members of the Merchants' Association here have expressed the opinion recently that one of the most necessary steps toward the resumption of normal business conditions is the adoption of a currency system that will expand and contract with the requirements of legitimate business instead of pursuing an exactly opposite course as at present, and some of them endorse the statement recently made by John V. Farwell, president of the National Citizens' League, that the United States has the worst currency system in the world.

The monetary commission has been criticised in some quarters for spending so much of its time in traveling about Europe studying foreign financial systems and so little in ascertaining the wishes of the American people in regard to this subject. It may be in answer to these criticisms that the present hearings have been arranged. They are likely to demonstrate at least that the merchants, farmers and manufacturers of the country are tired of a system that makes them the "goat" of every financial disturbance, and that they want to see some plan adopted more in harmony with the requirements of legitimate business.

Now York has just acquired the distinction of having the most distinguished mail carrier on record in the person of Postmaster General Hitchcock himself. The sight of the head of the Postoffice Department personally delivering mail from one suburban town to another was in itself novel enough. But the fact that his deliveries were made by aeroplane for the first time in this country made the new service unique. After dropping from an aeroplane the mail collected on the field at the recent aviation meet at its destination some miles away, the Postmaster General declared that he liked the job and was enthusiastic over the possibilities of an aerial service, particularly in some parts of the southwest.

At present, however, it hardly seems likely, because of the large expense, that any aerial mail routes will be established. The general question of the present methods of transporting the mails must be considered first, and since the Postmaster General admits there are inequalities in the system of mail transportation by railway and that many lines are underpaid for the services which they perform, the arrangement for some re-adjustment of pay under which the carriers will receive fairer treatment, which is likely to come before Congress this winter, probably will be settled before new and highly expensive methods are tried. Every one at the aviation meet, however, was surprised at the extent to which the first aerial mail service was patronized. Only matter posted on the grounds was handled and yet the number of pieces ran well over 1,000 a day.

Christopher Columbus, who discovered this country some 419 years ago, is apparently not of revered memory, at least in New York. At any rate the city officials have frowned upon the proposal for an appropriation of $10,000 for a celebration in honor of the anniversary of his landing, most of them expressing the opinion that if a celebration is wanted the persons who want it should foot the bills by private subscription. As a result Columbus day, launched last year as a public holiday for which the city was supposed to provide elaborate entertainment, is likely to become a dead letter.

In the words of an ex-controller, Columbus is literally a dead one here. "Why, Columbus has been dead for 400 years," said he, "so what's the use of celebrating now?" Prominent political characters in Tammany's stronghold evince little interest in the matter. "Columbus," said one, "when did he ever play with the Giants? I don't remember him. Better start a McGraw celebration." All of which is taken to indicate not that the city has become parsimonious but simply that Christopher Columbus is not regarded as a good excuse for a celebration as compared to other persons at present in the public eye.

Lecturers at the pure food show which has been going on this week fear that they may have unwittingly inaugurated a new use for certain canned foods. Women visitors, attracted in large numbers by the free samples distributed, have been particularly interested in the demonstration of the proper method of detecting canned peas which may be deleterious. According to the expert, a certain brilliant green hue of imported brands is to be avoided on the suspicion that it is obtained by the use of copper. He illustrated a sure test by pouring a little hydrochloric acid into a can of these peas and then inserting a steel knife blade. The blade came out beautifully coated with perfectly good copper. Thereafter his life was made miserable by inquiries as to how many cans of peas and how much acid the housewife would need to do over bronze finger bowls, vases and the like. Certain sweets, too, may become popular in other ways than as food, for the demonstration of the coal tar products which they contain has brought forth many inquiries as to the cost of using them to color flannel garments, coal tar being largely used in the making of dyes. Altogether the pure food show while undoubtedly of much educational value may lead to weird and undreamed of uses for certain products on which Dr. Wiley frowns.

That the income of a really first-class beggar exceeds that of most skilled laborers, ranging from $5 to $8 a day, is the testimony of New York's cleverest feminine mendicant who according to her own showing has been extracting more than $2,000 a year from the pockets of the passers-by. All that is needed is a location on a prominent street and the proper employment of professional wiles. Any sort of physical affliction likely to arouse sympathy is the chief requisition, and if nature or accident has neglected to furnish the malformation there are plenty of experts who can counterfeit such afflictions, for business purposes during working hours. As there are several thousand persons in New York who make begging their regular profession to say nothing of the many more thousands who indulge in it occasionally, it is estimated that the toll which they extort every year runs from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000.

Longacre.

O'LEARY COW EXONERATED.

True Version of the Origin of the Great Chicago Fire in Its Owner's Shed.

At Chicago's celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the big fire in Grant Park, the beginning of the fire was staged in a realistic manner. A replica of Mrs. O'Leary's historical barn was fired as a feature of the evening's parade. A cow impersonated the famous animal which, according to the generally accepted belief, started the big blaze by kicking over a lamp.

In this connection Michael Ahern, the only living police reporter who "covered" the story, gives the following version of the affair, which differs materially from that generally believed:

"The fire was not started by a cow kicking over a lamp while Mrs. O'Leary was milking the animal. The O'Learys were all in bed when the fire started. Mrs. O'Leary had milked her cows—she owned five—more than three hours before the fire was discovered. I know Mrs. O'Leary well. She was a truthful woman. A few days after the fire I interviewed her regarding the story of the cow and the lamp. She branded it as a fabrication.

"It is true that the fire started in the O'Learys cow shed, and I have my reason for believing that some one went there to pilfer milk from one of the cows. There was a social gathering in the neighborhood that night in honor of the arrival of a young man from Ireland. One of those present told me in after years that two women of the party went to the O'Leary shed to get some milk for punch. One woman held a lighted lamp while the other milked the cow. They thought they heard some one coming, and in their haste to escape the lamp was dropped, setting fire to the place. That I believe is the true cause of the fire."

VALUABLE BUFFALO COATS.

[Boston Transcript.]

The glories of this world pass away. One of the winter glories of rural New England is so near extinction that the few existing buffalo robes are as treasured by their proud possessors as if they were the skins of lions, of lions slain in personally conducted tours of darkest Africa. Time was when a buffalo robe was seen in every sleigh. Often it was a triumph of the furrier's skill, smoothly dressed and lined with red flannel. A scalloped border of the flannel gave at once the dash of color and the evidence of the robe answering to the dictates of fashion. One need not be more than middle-aged to recall when the buffalo robe was a factor of the attention a stylish turnout attracted. Nowadays there are robes and robes, but the buffalo's skin, save as it has been carefully preserved by some individual favored with more than common foresight, is almost as rare as the buffalo. As with the gold so with the buffalo coat once commonly worn by teamsters and drivers whose callings demanded that they face the wintry blast for hours at a time. That garment is now worthy of the museum's care and the collector's coin, and both the museum and the collector are offered a chance in the forthcoming sale of buffalo overcoats ordered by the quartermaster general of the army.

"The quartermaster general has for years carried in stock between 2,500 and 3,000 genuine buffalo overcoats made up to be worn by soldiers on duty in Alaska and other cold regions. They are said to be fine garments and probably they are, for in the days when they were turned into the stores for issue, the skins were easily obtainable, and the arts of the furrier and tailor were happily combined in many industrial centres. This lot appears to have come so late into the supply storehouses as to remain so much surplus, for the blanket coat, waterproof lined, which has been adopted for the army's protection against Arctic temperature, gives all the warmth of the fur, weighs less and permits greater freedom of movement.

The several quartermaster generals who have come into office and gone onto the retired list since these old coats were new were wise in their generation in allowing the garments to remain in storage, their very existence unknown to the general world. Now that the coats are to be put on the market, the market is so eager for them that they are to be disposed of in small lots to prevent cornering. The War Department has received so many inquiries that it has resolved to dispose of part of the lot at least on bids or proposals, to get the highest possible price from automobilists desirous cold-proof garments and from virtuosos in matters sartorial. The latter may well be interested in the sale, for there is not a little history, considerable zoology, and a touch of ethnology involved in the transaction. Not alone did Alaska know soldiers so clad in furs that they seemed battalions of shaggy animals that had learned to walk erect. Montana winters beat in vain against stout hearts fortified against their fury by buffalo coats. The army laughed at the winter winds as it trudged on, the "point" of civilization, through the snow. To the old officer who may chance to be at the sale the sight of these coats will recall the era of Western expansion. The animals who wore these shaggy coverings may have bounded along Kansas prairies; the hoofs of the great herds may have thundered over the sites of towns now big enough to change an election.

A SHAKESPEARE MEMORIAL.

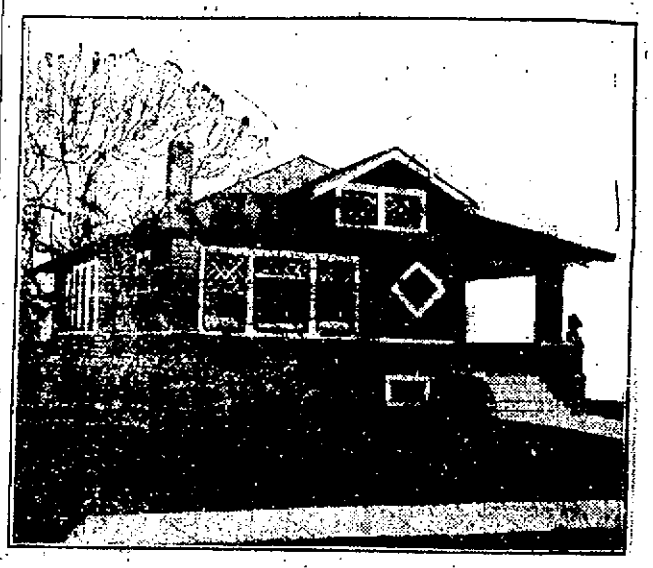

A Shakespeare National Memorial Theatre, constructed on the Island plan, with an elaborate frontage on Trafalgar square, London, will be the outcome of a great scheme if the ambitions of the promoters are realized.

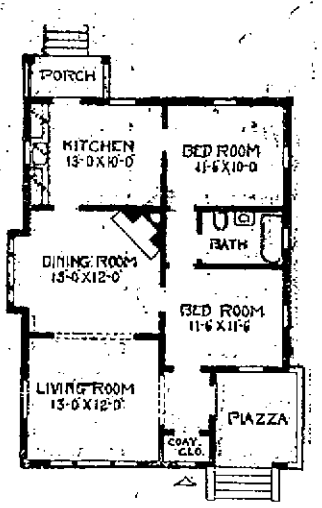

The executive committee of the National Theatre movement has the option of the site of the county council hall in Spring Gardens, until April, 1912, and though the scheme involves an outlay of $2,500,000 the committee is very sanguine that by April 23, 1916, the tercentenary of Shakespeare's death, not only will the theatre be an accomplished fact, but it will be ready for opening.

In a couple of years the site will be available, as the county council will be removing to their new home at Westminster. At the present time nearly $500,000 has been collected and subscribed, the substantial contributions to the amount being the $350,000 presented by Sir Carl Meyer and the $50,000 which the Shakespeare ball in the Albert Hall yielded. Now, for the first time, a public appeal for money is to be made by means of meetings and lectures in various parts of the country.

AN ATTRACTIVE BUNGALOW.

Design 876, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect, Minneapolis, Minn.

This home with all rooms on one floor, has a small cellar beneath the kitchen, but a full basement could be had if so desired. The rooms are nine feet in height. The bungalow is planned for hardwood floors throughout, and the finish is Washington fir, piazza floors and ceilings to be No. 1 clear Washington fir. The exterior can be sided or shingled. Size of the bungalow 26 feet wide and 36 feet deep.

OUSTER PROCEEDINGS OVER.

Hocking Valley Road to Manage Business According to the Statutes.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 10.—Ouster proceedings brought by the state of Ohio against the Hocking Valley railroad were ended today on the promise of the railroad company to relinquish control of certain coal companies and competing railroads. The Hocking Valley railroad has agreed to dispose of its holdings in the Toledo & Ohio Central Railroad, the Sunday Creek Coal Company and other railroads and coal companies and to manage its business in accordance with the statutes hereafter.

UNPATRIOTIC ABSTEMIOUSNESS.

[New York Times.]

The dollar dinner (for political purposes only) was serviceable 15 years ago, and it was fairly useful four years later. But both as a symbol of democratic simplicity and as a fearless defiance of hygienic law in the name of plain living, it has become a nuisance. The really high-minded statesmen of the Middle West ought to find some better way to honor the President when he visits them than to give him a cheap dinner (as advertised), and wear their old clothes. There is no danger to American pride in a clean shirt, a white lawn cravat and a swallow-tailed coat. There is neither patriotism nor dignity in eating badly cooked, badly chosen food.

It is time for the Middle West to get over that sort of claptrap. Everybody knows that the Middle Westerners are fond of mixed drinks and reasonably high living. To be sure, not a single Middle Western state is renowned for either its cooking or its special dishes. There is nothing like Vermont's roast turkey, Maine's lobster, Maryland's terrapin, Virginia's ham. But, all in all, they fare well and do not, as a rule, prefer canned vegetables to fresh ones from the garden. They know how long meat should hang and, except in the most bigoted communities, have stopped dressing salads with either sugar or molasses.

Arise, O ye people of the Middle West, and rebuke gammon! If you invite the foremost citizen of the nation to dine with you, give him of the best you can afford and brag indecently neither of its cheapness nor its expensiveness. In the old days at home, when the minister came to supper, your folks did not tell him how much or how little the forerender cost. As for the affected dislike for "dress suit," the time has passed for that, too. Senator Bailey of Texas is about to retire to private life.

Bulletin No. 3.

Last year the prune crop of California and Oregon sold at the highest price ever in the history of prune packing in this country. This was partly due to a short crop and partly to a very heavy European demand. This year promises to be a repetition, to a more or less extent, as Europe has already bought heavy and the price for prunes for this Fall delivery is at present very high. Our opinion is that Prunes, Apricots and Peaches will sell high throughout the winter.

Here's Something New

No more ashes to lug. No clumsy pan to spill dust and dirt on the kitchen floor.

The Glenwood Ash Chute

solves the problem. It is located just beneath the grate and connected by a sheet iron pipe straight down through the kitchen floor to ash barrel in cellar. No part is in sight. Not a particle of dust can escape. Just slide the damper once each day and drop the ashes directly into the ash barrel.

The Dust Tight Cover

to barrel is another entirely new Glenwood idea and is very ingenious. The Ash Chute is sold complete with barrel and all connections, as illustrated, at a moderate price to fit any cabinet style Glenwood. This is only one of the splendid improvements of the Plain Cabinet Glenwood the Range without ornamentation or fancy nickel, "The Mission Style" Glenwood. Every essential refined and improved upon.

Up-To-Date Gas Attachments

This Range can be had with the latest and most improved Elevated or End Gas Range attachments. It has a powerful hot water front or for country use a Large Copper Reservoir on the end opposite fire box. It can be furnished with fire box at either right or left of oven as ordered. When the Ash Chute cannot be used an Improved Ash Pan is provided.

REVOLUTIONARIES SEIZE WU CHANG.

suddenness of rain from clear skies, and it can only be taken as an indication of the widespread disaffection throughout China. The last previous outbreak of revolutionary activity was in the province of Sze Chuen, 500 miles up the river, and it appeared at Cheng Tu, an interior town 175 miles north of the river. Cheng Tu also is a provincial capital.

Students of Chinese affairs have believed for a year or more that the signs pointed to a long series of outbreaks which pessimistic observers believe will lead to the dismemberment of the great empire. The struggle is said to be in its essence a test of strength between the great central government and the provincial baronies, in this way resembling the feudal wars of Europe in the middle ages.

REVOLUTIONARY PLOT KNOWN.

Cabinet Meeting Called at Pekin to Consider Wu Chang Situation.

PEKIN, China, Oct. 11.—A special cabinet meeting was held this afternoon to consider the situation at Wu-Chang. The viceroy of Hu Peh province, who escaped from Wu Chang and boarded a yacht in the river, reports that he had been aware of the existence of an extensive revolutionary organization for several weeks past. Last Monday he learned that an outbreak had been fixed for that night. He made 32 arrests and seized documents, proclamations, explosives and forged seals, along with papers that showed that the revolutionaries intended to make Hu Peh the base of operations, which were planned to envelop the Yang Tse Kiang provinces, particularly Hunan.

Consolidation of Rhode Island Baptists and Free Baptists Favored.

Rev. George W. Quick Elected Member of Board of Managers at Meeting in Providence.

The principal feature of the Rhode Island Baptist Anniversary meeting in Providence Tuesday evening was the report of the committee on conference with the Free Baptist denomination in favor of the consolidation of the Rhode Island Baptist State Convention and the Rhode Island Free Baptist Conference, and recommending that a larger committee be created to which the convention may entrust the task of effecting such a practical union, with authority to act for the convention until its next annual meeting.

The report stated that the committee had found it necessary during the year to delay further local conference with the Free Baptists until more definite action is taken by the national denominational societies. It is stated that the recent advance toward union lately made in Boston by representatives of the national societies, in the merging of missionary, educational and financial interests, renders further local progress necessary to the development of both national and local interests.

The morning session of the state convention was devoted largely to the reading of reports and appointment of committees. The annual sermon was preached by Rev. George W. Quick, D. D., pastor of the Second Baptist Church of this city.

In the afternoon Rev. C. M. Gallup of Providence spoke on "The Inviting Opportunities," Rev. C. E. Burr discussed the subject of missions from the point of view of "The Inspiring Motives," and Rev. T. E. Bartlett spoke on "The Call to Action," and urged that the endowment for missions be made $100,000. "Our Wife One-Accord Work" was the topic of an address by Rev. L. C. Barnes, D. D., of New York. Reports of committees were received and the president, Rev. Frank Rector, D. D., extended a welcome to the pastors who have settled in the state during the past year.

Rev. L. C. Barnes of New York and Rev. Edward Holyoke were the speakers at the supper, at 6:15 o'clock in the First Baptist Church, where the convention sessions were held during the day. Rev. Mr. Barnes and Rev. Mr. Holyoke spoke of "The Men and Religion Movement." At the evening session of the convention Rev. Everett T. Tomlinson of Elizabeth, N. J., well known as a writer of books for boys, made an eloquent plea for a fund for the support of superannuated clergymen.

The election of officers took place, Rev. Frank Rector, D. D., of Pawtucket, formerly pastor of the Second Baptist church of this city, being re-elected president, Rev. George W. Quick, D. D., of this city; Rev. H. E. Hutchman, formerly of the Tiverton Baptist Church, and Rev. H. A. Roberts of New Shoreham were elected members of the board of managers. Rev. Dr. Quick was chosen chairman of the committee on state apportionment.

"REAL ISSUE" OF THE WAR.

That Slavery Would Go Was not Expectation of the North in October Fifty Years Ago.

[Writer in Boston Transcript.]

As we look back on the war from the viewpoint of 1911 we, especially those of us who are dependent on the history book, are apt to see issues distorted by the mist of half a century. The war was brought on by slavery; slavery fell with secession; that is the sequence of events that stands out clearly. We think the sequence was either seen or foreseen by all the defenders of the Union in 1861; but that impression is an error. That slavery would have to go, so far from being the general belief of the North in the October now 50 years gone, was the conviction of a few logical minds.

The "issue" was brought forward in the Massachusetts Republican state convention which assembled at Worcester, October 1, and even the prestige of Charles Sumner could not shake the conservation of the delegates who passed slavery by. The first volunteers went to war to defend the Union; they were moved by the spirit of nationality. They had not taken a definite stand on abolition; they did not see why anybody should be in a hurry to do so. Slavery they did not like. It was an evil institution that would be got rid of by-and-by, but they felt no righteous wrath that impelled them to hew it to pieces as an abomination. The sentiment of the Republican convention was in harmony with that of the volunteers and Sumner was unable to stir it up to energetic action. Sumner's speech was a remarkable one, abounding in epigrammatic touches. He said his hearers had often heard it said that the war would make an end of slavery, but it was surer still that the overthrow of slavery would make an end of war. This was his thesis from which he proceeded to urge emancipation and the employment of the freed Negroes as soldiers of the Union. It was not necessary to carry the war into Africa; it would be enough "to carry Africa into the war, in any form, any quality, any way."

The convention was not only surprised, it was offended. The speech was considered "dangerously radical," "ill-timed," etc., etc. To mark its repugnance to Sumner's advice, the convention refused to adopt resolutions offered by James Freemen Clarke, which were in sympathy with Sumner's ideas. One of these proposed that slaves within the lines of the Union army should be declared free, that they should be eligible for military service, and that loyal owners should be compensated for the loss of their bondsmen. These resolutions were sent to slumber in the committee room. Sumner was denounced by the organ of Boston Republican conservatism. The Advertiser, which characterized his doctrines as "fatal." The same paper, whose loyalty to the Union was unquestioned and unquestionable, predicted that neither men nor money would be forthcoming for the war, if once the people should be impressed with the belief that the abolition of slavery, and not the defense of the Union, was its object. That seems now like the vain shadow of an opinion, but The Advertiser voiced the sentiment of the majority.

Men live fast in great national crises. Charles Sumner had lived far ahead of the mass of Massachusetts Republicans, who a year late, when Lincoln had issued his preliminary emancipation proclamation, had to toil to catch up with him.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE DEFEATED.

Leaders in California to Put Issue to Test Under the Referendum.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—Woman suffrage has been defeated in California. The complete vote of San Francisco on the amendment was: For, 21,907; against, 35612, an adverse majority of 14,705. In the state at large the majority in favor of granting suffrage to women will not exceed 8,000. Returns this morning indicate that practically all of the other amendments voted upon yesterday have carried.

Outside of the counties around San Francisco bay the state apparently voted strongly in favor of granting the ballot to women, and later returns from the state at large may swell the majority now standing. In San Francisco, however, the vote was heavily against female suffrage.

Voters expressed emphatic approval of the so-called progressive legislation fathered by the present state administration. Opposition to the recall of all elective officers, including the judiciary, was buried under an avalanche of favorable votes, and the amount providing for the initiative and referendum rolled up a majority but little less than that for the recall proposition.

Suffrage leaders here declare today that they are in no way discouraged over the apparent defeat of the proposed amendment granting the suffrage to the women of California, and that plans are already under way to put the issue to another test under the initiative and referendum amendment, which carried in yesterday's election by a heavy majority.

10—A fairly active demand for the leading stocks advanced prices in the initial transactions today. Changes were restricted to fractions except in the case of Western Maryland, which rose a point. American Smelting, Southern Pacific, and Southern Railway preferred were in good demand at higher prices. Canadian Pacific showed some heaviness.

11—When Reading began to manifest weakness the whole list sold off, but the usual market leaders did not yield to much below yesterday's closing. Reading gave way from 137⅛ to 136¾. Trading became very dull around the low figures. Large purchases of American Tobacco 4 per cent bonds advanced them 1¾ to 83⅝. The 6 per cents were neglected, but held firm.

Noon—The demand for stocks today was confined almost entirely to the limited requirements of professional operators who did not wish to increase their commitments, in view of the holiday tomorrow. Purchases for the retirement of short contracts gave the market an appearance of strength at the outset, but prices soon headed off and the list became lifeless. Almost the only activity was in Amer-

HOW THE FIGURES DIFFERED.

Varying Estimates of the Damage Caused to the Smith Building.

First Fire Inquest Report Includes Statements by Inspector and by the Appraisers.

The first report has been filed in the fire inquest docket in the office of the building inspector at the City Hall. It has to do with the Smith Block fire and shows a variety of figures, all based on the same subject. There were no plans to work from and hence all parties figured from a photograph taken for The News during the early progress of the fire. With this negative as a basis each of the parties worked from prints made on different papers, where the element of stretch in the paper was a factor which was not computed, but may have meant feet in the figures. Some used linen tapes and others steel tapes in measuring the building.

The reason for all the figuring is the report made by Inspector of Buildings Sullivan, which was to the effect that the structure was more than three quarters damaged, and hence not a proper construction for repair under the definite terms of the building law. The building inspector in coming to his decision had the assistance of Mr. Thomas F. Keeher and City Engineer Lawton—in reality a board of three, though officially it is the finding of the inspector. Their report was that the building measured 60 by 80.5 on the ground, giving an area of 4830 square feet. The height they found by measuring the photograph to be be 67 feet and this gave the structure 323,610 cubic feet. It was allowed that 14 feet of the height was in good condition suitable for repair or, as it was more definitely determined 20.6 per cent is good and 79.4 per cent damaged. As a result of the finding the following papers have been filed:

"September 22, 1911.

"To Constant Smith of the City and County of Newport, State of Rhode Island.

"Dear Sir: After an examination of the premises numbered 76 to 82 Broadway, this city, being lot numbered 129 on the assessors' plat, No. 17, I am of the opinion that the north building on the said premises has been damged by fire to an extent greater than three fourths the value of said building.

"You are therefore notified that repairs cannot be made to said building on the present lines of the building.

"Very Truly Yours
"M. D. Sullivan
"Inspector."

"Newport, R. I., October 3, 1911.

"To the Hon. Inspector of Buildings:

"Sir: The undersigned appraisers, appointed to ascertain the loss on the Smith Building recently destroyed by fire, desire to make the following report:

"In consequence of honest differences we found it necessary to solicit a third appraiser and did so in the person of Mr. Duncan McLean.

"Then, after a thorough and detailed examination of the premises we found the cubic measurement to be 281,175 cubic feet, which at a cost of .06 per foot (a very low estimate) would be $16,870. Of the measurement we find 182,763 cubic feet destroyed, being 65 per cent of the measurement and likewise 65 per cent of the value, which left 35 per cent of the measurement and the same of the value in good sound condition.

"Respectfully submitted
"Patrick H. Horgan
"Duncan McLean."

"October 7, 1911.

"To the Building Inspector of the City of Newport, State of Rhode Island.

"Sir: Having been appointed September 22, 1911, by His Honor the mayor to appraise the damage caused by fire to the Smith Building (so-called) on Broadway September 14, 1911, under section 189 of the building laws, the owner selecting Mr. P. H. Horgan, on September 23 we both went over the damaged structure and noted the amount of damages done by fire or otherwise.

"We agreed to meet again September 25, at which meeting we went over the estimated damages, but did not agree on the amount of same. September 26 we considered the matter still further and concluded that we could not agree as to the actual amount of damages.

"October 2, under section 191 of the building law, we decided on having an umpire and agreed on Mr. Duncan McLean to act in said capacity, at which time the umpire estimated the probable damage at 65 per cent damage to the building, to which Mr. Horgan agreed.

"The undersigned estimated the loss at much more and begs leave to submit a minority report. Total estimate area of building, 286,665 cubic Withdrawal of Sanborn Removes Every Trace of Opposition.

Nomination for Senator Unanimous in Non-Speech-Making Republican City Convention.

The Republican city convention Tuesday evening unanimously nominated R. Livingston Beeckman for senator, the withdrawal of Senator John P. Sanborn as a candidate taking away all opposition. The convention was fully attended and there was in addition a considerable gathering of

R. LIVINGSTON BEECKMAN, Republican Nominee for Senator.

Republicans and a few interested Democrats in the district court room at the court house when the meeting was called to order. There was no show of opposition to Mr. Beeckman's candidacy and the nomination was received with applause.

It was strictly a business convention. There was no speech-making, except the brief remarks made by Clark Burdick in placing Mr. Beeckman's name before the delegates, and the chairman's efforts to have a little speaking after the business had been transacted met with no response, the meeting being adjourned within 20 minutes of assembling.

The convention was called to order promptly at 8 o'clock by Chairman John Mahan of the Republican city committee. William Hamilton of the First district delegation was elected temporary chairman and George B. Austin of the Third district temporary secretary. The credentials of the delegates were called for and there was found to be only one vacancy, Colonel Andrew K. McMahon, who was chosen at the Second District caucus, being unable as yet to go out in the evening, although rapidly recovering from his recent illness. George W. Ritchie was elected a delegate in his place and the convention was made up as follows:

First district—William Hamilton, William F. Tripp, William H. King, Thomas E. Sherman, Armsiead Hurley.

Second district—Clark Burdick, George W. Ritchie, George L. Scott, Allen G. Goddard, Edward T. Johnson.

Third district—Douglas P. A. Jacoby, Frank G. Kimball, Fred P. Lee, John S. Coggeshall, George B. Austin.

Fourth district—John T. Allan, Arthur Power, Clark C. Brown, James W. Johnson, Alexander MacLellan.

Fifth district—James McLeish, Andrew S. Meikle, A. Livingston Mason, Edward Wilson, James Brown.

The temporary organization was made permanent and the secretary read the calls for the state convention and the city caucuses and conventions.

The first business was announced as the choice of delegates to the state convention to be held in Providence Wednesday, October 18. These were elected, two from each district, named by the district delegation, and two at large, from the floor of the convention. The delegates chosen were as follows:

First district, Thomas E. Sherman, William Hamilton; Second district, John P. Sanborn, William H. Jackson; Third district, Fred P. Lee, Edward A. Sherman; Fourth district, J. Henry Reuter, Arthur Power; Fifth district, James McLeish, John Mahan; at large, Clark Burdick, Herbert Bliss.

The next business in order was the nomination of a member of the state central committee. William G. Landers, who has represented the Newport Republicans on the committee several years, some time ago announced that he would not be a candidate for re-election, and the convention unanimously selected John Mahan.

When nominations for state senator were called for Clark Burdick in a brief speech named R. Livingston Beeckman, one who is an active and ardent Republican, who is interested in city and state affairs, who has been an efficient member of the house of representatives for two years, and who was shown to be at the largely attended caucuses the previous evening the choice of the Republicans of Newport for the place. Mr. Burdick in concluding his speech said the attendance at the caucuses gave evidence of a greater interest among the members of the party than for many years, which argued well for the success of the Republicans in the campaign. The nomination was seconded by several delegates and Mr. Beeckman was made the unanimous choice of the convention.

This completed the business and after the chairman's futile effort to induce some one to speak, to "get a little fire into the campaign," the convention adjourned, the delegates to the state convention having been given power to fill any vacancy which may occur in their number.

NEW OFFICERS CHOSEN.

Mrs. John P. Sanborn Regent of William Ellery Chapter, Daughters of American Revolution.

The annual meeting of William Ellery Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, was held at he home of Mrs. Harry A. Titus on Mill Street Thursday evening, the attendance being about 35. The regent, Mrs. J. Alton Barker, presided and after the reading of the manual "America" was sung, Mrs. Edward A. Brown, pianist.

After the calling of the roll by the secretary, Mrs. Harry H. Lawton, the reports of the various officers were given. The treasurer gave the entire receipts of the year as $493.15, including members' dues. Of this sum the chairman of the Ways and Means committee, Mrs. George W. Barlow, reported $269 as raised by entertainments, sales and whists. Mrs. Harvey J. Lockrow the registrar, reported one new member Mrs. Frederick Greene. There were 35 last year; one was lost by death, others by removal, while there have been transfers from other chapters, so that the present membership is 94.

A new committee on flowers, was appointed, whose service it will be to visit and send flowers to the sick. The prize essay committee was merged with the patriotic education committee and bears the name of the latter.

The regent gave a brief annual report, as all she might say would be included in the reports of the different officers. The report of the historian, Mrs. William R. Howard, who was absent, was read by Miss Etta M. Peckham and presented in a pleasing way the social and business events of the year.

Mrs. J. Alton Barker having served as regent for two years, the time limit of the chapter, the election of officers took place, resulting as follows: Regent, Mrs. John P. Sanborn.

Vice Regent—Mrs. T. Fred Kaull.
Recording Secretary—Mrs. W. J. Underwood.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. Frank W. Merill.
Treasurer—Miss Elizabeth Bryer.
Historian—Mrs. Frank M. Greenlaw.
Registrar—Mrs. Harvey J. Lockrow.

All these are new officers except the registrar.

Directors for Executive Board—Mrs. Thomas Aylsworth, Mrs. G. W. Barlow, Mrs. George H. Bryant, Mrs. J. A. Barker, Mrs. E. A. Brown, Mrs. Edmund J. Tanner. As Mrs. Barker was about to turn over the gavel to her successor, Mrs Sanborn, she was asked to pause for a few minutes. Mrs. Clara E. Dennis then in a brief speech of congratulation and appreciation presented her in the name of the chapter with a beautiful and costly brooch of sapphires and pearls in the shape of a long crescent; engraved on the back in letters so minute as to need a magnifying glass were the words "William Ellery Chapter, D. A. R. 1911" After, by request, Mrs. Dennis had fastened the pin, Mrs. Barker briefly and feelingly acknowledged her pleasure in the gift.

Mrs. Sanborn then took charge and announced the following committees:

Nominating—Mrs. John Jenckes, Miss Elizabeth Smith.

Auditing—Miss Katherine Stevens, Mrs. William D. Sayer.

Program—Mrs. William R. Howard, Mrs. Packer Braman, Mrs. Lawrence A. Goffe.

Patriotic education—Mrs. Clara E. Dennis, Mrs. Thomas A. Lawton, Mrs. John Young.

Entertainment—Mrs. Thomas Aylesworth, Mrs. Harry A. Titus, Mrs. A. J. Pudder, Mrs. Thomas P. Peckham, Mrs. John A. Young, Mrs. C. Edward Farnum.

Ways and Means—Mrs. Edmund J. Tanner, Mrs. Robert C. Ebbs, Mrs. Packer Braman, Mrs. W. D. Sayer, Mrs. Jesse Peckham, Mrs. Samuel Smith.

Ice cream, bon bons and confectionery were served and there was a social time until a late hour.

ROGERS - EAST GREENWICH THURSDAY.

Another trial will be made Thursday to play the game scheduled for last Saturday between the Rogers High School and the East Greenwich Academy football elevens, on account of the rain Saturday the game being postponed. The team, accompanied by about 90 rooters, will leave at 10 o'clock in two of Champlin's launches, for East Greenwich.

A week of practice since the Durfee game has put the local team in fine condition. The coaches have developed some new defenses, to be used against a forward pass. This play lost the game for Rogers in both the contests with East Greenwich last year, the Academy boys being especially adept in that line. Rogers has high hopes of winning this time.

NO CONTEST ANYWHERE.

Only One Ticket in Each District at Democratic Assembly Caucuses.

Good Vote Brought Out in the Fifth in Honor of Representative Sullivan.

The Democratic Assembly caucuses Tuesday evening were not so well attended as those of the Republicans Monday, and there were several reasons why. There were no contests, only one ticket in each wardroom, and except in the Fifth it was hard work to induce voters to come in and be counted. The caucus officers were glad to have passers-by step in and talk, even if they did not vote.

The total ballot varied from seven in the First district to nearly 300 in the Fifth, where some of the workers believed the caucus should show something of how the voters of the district felt toward Representative John B. Sullivan and went after voters to make a showing. Besides, the caucus is held where many voters pass by and they naturally drifted in.

The talk about contests in the Fourth and Fifth districts amounted to nothing and in these, as in the others, the one candidate named had a walk-over. The ticket is as follows:

First District—Philip A. Hayes.
Second District—William E. Mumford.
Third District—William Herbert Sisson.
Fourth District—William A. Maher.
Fifth District—John B. Sullivan.

The taxicabs, cabs and other vehicles had no work to do in connection with these caucuses; they did all the caucus work the night before.

POOR SHOOTING CONDITIONS.

The Aquidneck Rifle Club held its regular match on the Chaseville range Tuesday evening under poor conditions with the moon shining directly in the faces of the members.

J. D. Chase won with 457, R. S. Chase was second with 454, and the rest were bunched with a difference of only 10 points.

The bull's-eye match was won by J. J. Peckham, with a 25, H. R. Chase next. The scores were as follows:

CLEARING UP AT THE ARMY AND NAVY.

The men are clearing up about the new Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Association building, but it will be weeks before the structure will be fully completed. It will be ready for the dedication, but of course there are a great many ends to connect and these finishing touches take time, though in the general result they amount to far more than at first appears. Today two heavy iron gratings were placed over windows on the Broadway front and these little additions show what the completion of details will do.

Notice having already been posted in the building to the effect that it will be open about November 15, applications for rooms are coming in from naval men in the city. The new building will have large accomodations in this respect.

FLAHERTY—CAMPBELL.

The marriage of Miss Daisy Sweet Campbell to Mr. Thomas A. Flaherty took place Tuesday evening at the residence of Rev. N. J. Sproul, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. The bride was attended by Miss Julia Merry and the groom by Mr. Edward Meyers. The bride wore a tailor-made suit of blue with a white picture hat, and carried a bouquet of roses, and the bridesmaid wore a white broadcloth suit with black hat. Mr. and Mrs. Flaherty left immediately after the ceremony on their wedding trip, taking the train for Boston. They will return to make their residence here.

Politicians Preparing for Republican Caucus—Possibility of a Full Opposition Ticket.

(Regular correspondence of The News.)

With the Republican caucus set for the last of the week, the politicians are busy. It is understood that Senator Clarke will decline a re-nomination, and that Representative Head will be a candidate for advancement, leaving the office of representative for a new comer. A number of candidates for this position have been named, one or two having already announced their desire to serve. There is also more or less heard concerning a full opposition ticket, but the names of these candidates have not been made public. There is a possibility that two lists of delegates to the state convention will be in the field. There will probably be a good majority of the voters at the caucus, to prevent a repetition of the expense of last spring.

Miss Clara Head has left on a short visit to Providence.

Mr. Brownell Davis who has been visiting relatives in town has returned to his home in New Bedford.

Mr. John B. Caswell of Newport and New York spent the morning on the rocks at the Dumplings, fishing, with fairly good success.

Messrs. L. H. Clarke, Arthur Clarke and John Brooks with their families have returned to their homes from a week's stay at the Peckham camps at Beavertail.

Miss Moy Aspin who has been guest of Miss Mildred Anthony has returned to New Bedford.

SHIPYARD NOTES.

Mr. Earl P. Mason has laid up his houseboat Atheling for the winter, and yawl Juanita has been laid up at Bliven's yard so that of the regulars anchored off the shipyard only the Outer Fountain Fishing Club's Patience and Mr. Dodge's Tarpon are left.

Schooner Carrie E. Roberts of Block Island is hauled out at the shipyard for repairs. The shipyard men have only just finished repairs to steam yacht Express, into which the Roberts ran recently.

Fishing steamer Brynhilda is hauled out for the season at Williams & Manchester's.
